GENERATION GAP

First, let us dispel a myth<sup>1</sup>. The idea that growing up is one long fight between teenagers and their parents is not accurate<sup>2</sup>. Majority of teenagers say that they like their parents and get along well with them. However, it is true that arguing increases in the teen<sup>3</sup> years.

WHAT DO PARENTS AND TEENAGERS FIGHT<sup>4</sup> ABOUT?

WHY PARENTS AND TEENAGERS ARGUE

The argument arises out of clash<sup>5</sup> of roles. Teenagers want to gain greater independence, more freedom. Young people and their parents have different views on when the children should be allowed to do things alone: go shopping, choose what to wear and eat, what time to come home, with whom to go out, etc.

Researchers have found that most disputes between parents and teenagers are not very heated and are typically about issues, such as:

- ☐ fighting with brothers and sisters,
- ☐ cleaning up bedroom,
- ☐ possessions,
- ☐ their own space,
- ☐ time,
- ☐ helping out around the house,
- ☐ doing homework,
- ☐ bedtime,
- ☐ time to come home,
- ☐ household chores<sup>6</sup>
- ☐ friends and responsibilities.

Issues that tend to generate more heat, but occur less frequently, include:

- ☐ talking back to parents,
- ☐ lying,
- ☐ getting poor results at school,
- ☐ getting in trouble at school.

- How true are these issues for you? Mark the ones that apply to you.
- Say what you argue with your parents about.
- Make your own list, choose three of them and try to explain the reasons to your partner.

Notes:

1. dispel a myth – развеять миф
2. accurate – точный
3. teen years – подростковый возраст
4. fight – (зд.) ссориться, спорить
5. clash – столкновение, не совмещение
6. chore [tʃɔ:] – повседневная обязанность
household chores – домашние хлопоты

Ex. 9. Read the text and match each phrasal verb to a definition below. Find Russian equivalents.

You know, my dad can be horrible sometimes – he has a tendency to (1) lash out at me when he's angry. I don't mean he hits me or anything, but he says cruel things and he likes to (2) put me down especially in front of his friends, saying I'm useless because I don't know how to cook and clean, that sort of thing. A lot of the time, I can (3) put up with his behaviour, but sometimes, I'm feeling, like, sensitive, and it really (4) gets me down. So that's when I get on the phone, because I know I can (5) turn to Katie for comfort, she's always kind and understanding, like, I know she won't (6) let me down, she always has time for me.

- a) ☐ to bear or tolerate something
- b) ☐ to go to someone for help
- c) ☐ fail to help
- d) ☐ suddenly speak angrily to someone
- e) ☐ to express a low opinion of someone and thus make him feel hurt
- f) ☐ to cause someone to be disappointed

- ☐ What's an advantage of being close to one's family?
- ☐ Who takes care of the children in your family?

Track

Ex. 11. Read the text and tick (✓) the statements that are mentioned in the article.

SIBLING CONFLICT

"Why can't our kids just get along? Why must they always fight?" Parents get tired of the bickering, teasing, competing. They can't understand why their children can't leave each other alone, and just be friends. "Who needs it?" parents ask.

The answer is "the children do." Fighting is not a sign of children not getting along. It is how they get along – using conflict to test their power, establish differences, and ventilate emotion. Children compete for dominance, parental attention, parental support, and household resources. Who gets what? Who does what? Who goes first? Who gets most? Who's right? Who's best? When we are children, our brothers and sisters – are our first friends and first enemies. The effect of sibling relationships in childhood can last a lifetime. Many experts say that the relationship among brothers and sisters explains a great deal about family life, especially today when brothers and sisters often spend more time with one another than with their parents.

Studies have shown that sibling relationships between sister-sister pairs and brother-brother pairs are different. Sister pairs are the closest. Brothers are the most competitive. Sisters are usually more supportive of each other. They are more talkative, frank, and better at expressing themselves and sharing their feelings. On the other hand, brothers are usually more competitive with each other. The major exception to this is identical twins for whom similarity creates an unusual intimacy. The more alike they are, the closer they feel. The closer they feel, the more alike they want to become. They can feel incomplete in absence from each other, they can have unspoken means of knowing what is going on in each other, and they may even construct a secret language between them that no one else understands.

Experts agree that the relationship among siblings is influenced by many factors. For example, studies have shown, that both brothers and sisters become more competitive and aggressive when their parents treat them even a little bit differently from one another. But parental treatment is not the only factor. Genetics, gender, life events, people, and experiences outside the family all shape the lives of siblings.

1. ☐ Parents get tired of siblings argument.
2. ☐ Parents quite understand their children.
3. ☐ Parents want their children to leave them alone (оставить в покое).
4. ☐ Children fight for dominance and parent's attention.
5. ☐ Fighting means that children cannot get along.
6. ☐ Siblings are our oldest friends in life.
7. ☐ Some siblings have good relationships, but other siblings have bad relationships.
8. ☐ Sibling relationships are among the most important relationships in life.
9. ☐ Sisters get along better with their sisters than with their brothers.
10. ☐ Females and males generally have different sibling relationships.
11. ☐ Siblings spend a lot of time together because they have to.
12. ☐ There are many causes of good and bad sibling relationships.
13. ☐ Research has shown that siblings hate to fight.
14. ☐ When parents treat each child a little differently, the children get along better.

Dear Diary,

I love my family – all of them, my parents and my four brothers and sisters. However, sometimes they drive me crazy. There are good and bad things about coming from a large family. One of the advantages of coming from a large family is that I always have someone to talk to. Unfortunately, one of the disadvantages is that I never have my privacy. And of course the biggest problem with not having any privacy is that I never have any space I can call my own.

Read the diary entry. Imagine you also share your thoughts with your diary. Write about your family.

TIME FOR FUN

A JOKE

Boy or Girl?

In western countries a lot of boys and girls have the same kind of hairdos and many of them wear similar clothes. So it is often difficult to tell whether they are boys or girls. One day an old gentleman went for a walk in a park in New York, and when he was tired he sat down on a bench. A teenager was standing near a pond feeding the ducks.

"My goodness!" the old man said to the person sitting next to him. "Do you see that person over there, with the tight trousers and long hair? Is it a boy or a girl?"

"A girl", was the prompt reply. "She's my daughter."

"Oh!" the old man answered quickly. "I'm sorry I didn't know that you were her mother."

"I'm not", said the other person, "I'm her father."

ONE WHO UNDERSTANDS

When Matt Kelley was growing up in the United States, he often thought to himself, "Who am I?" Of course, there is nothing unusual about this; most teenagers ask themselves the same question from time to time. But Matt's problem was special. When he saw his schoolmates, he didn't see anyone who looked like him. There were white kids and black kids, Asian kids and Hispanic kids, but none like him. And when Matt went home and switched on the TV or opened a magazine, he still didn't see anyone who was quite like him.

Matt Kelley was a multiracial teen: his dad was white and his mum was a Korean. He felt that he didn't quite fit in with white kids because of his Asian side, and that he didn't quite fit in with Asians because he was half white. This made him feel confused<sup>1</sup> and frustrated,<sup>2</sup> and he often wondered if he was the only teenager in the world with this problem.

In Matt's first year at university, he met other multiracial young people, and he began to talk with them about the problems that they had in common. He soon realized that there were lots of multiracial people in the U.S. and that they didn't really have a place to discuss their experiences<sup>3</sup>. So in 1998, when Matt was only 19, he founded MAVIN. MAVIN, which means "one who understands" in Hebrew, is a magazine for young multiracial people who want to read about other people of mixed race and their experiences. It publishes articles about the unique problems that affect multiracial teens and invites its readers to write their own stories for publication in the magazine.

In a recent survey, when a group of American teens were asked if they had ever dated someone of a different race or ethnic background, 60% said yes. This, and the popularity of multiracial celebrities<sup>4</sup> like Tiger Woods, Halle Berry, Lenny Kravitz and Mariah Carey, has made people reconsider the old concepts of race. "Multiracial means disregarding old models," explains Matt Kelley. "It means there are no boundaries to race. We can be comfortable being whatever we want to be."

Today, in addition to editing his magazine, Matt is President of the MAVIN Foundation, an organization that gives support to multiracial teens and their families. He is truly "one who understands."

Your school magazine has published some questions to find out about Russian young people's attitudes to racial differences. A school magazine in a British school is planning to do a similar project about British young people. They have asked you to give them the list of questions you have prepared – in English, of course! Write down five questions from your list.

HOW WE CHOOSE OUR FRIENDS

A survey<sup>1</sup> conducted by a telephone helpline in the USA found that young people today rely<sup>2</sup> less and less on their families and more and more on their friends. Why so?

A friend is a person you know and like well. How do we choose our friends?

The words friend and free come from the same root word<sup>3</sup> suggesting that the main thing in a friendship is the freedom to be ourselves in the company of another person.

Most friendships begin with shared<sup>4</sup> interests or activity which gradually develop into mutual<sup>5</sup> trust, openness, affection and loyalty. We like people who share our attitudes and values. When someone agrees with us or makes the same choice we have made, we gain confidence in our own views.

There is also a tendency to enjoy the company of people of the same economic status and level of education.

Most young people say that they have a main group of about fifteen close friends, not just one or two best friends as was the case long ago.

Having a close group of people to depend on seems more secure than exclusive<sup>6</sup> relationship with one person. Friends share problems, gossip, jokes, concerns<sup>7</sup> and hobbies. This is all young people need and long<sup>8</sup> for.

"FIFTEEN"

... is the story of one summer in the life of fifteen-year-old Jane Purdy. She is quite an ordinary sort of girl, with quite ordinary hopes and fears. What is different about her is that she is an American; which also means that quite a lot of things happen to her a little bit sooner than they happen in other countries. If she had been a British girl, for instance, she wouldn't have had such long holidays, or spent so much of them earning money by baby-sitting. And Stan would not have been delivering dogs' meat to help pay his way through college. In fact he would not have been allowed to drive a van<sup>1</sup> at all, because he wouldn't have been old enough to have a licence<sup>2</sup>, and Jane and Stan would probably not even have met each other until a year later.

But whether Jane is British or American, or fifteen or sixteen, what she feels through this summer and how she copes<sup>3</sup> with the first pangs of growing up are very delicately and truly set down in this book.

(Foreword to the British edition of "Fifteen")

Mrs Purdy looked curiously at her daughter. "What's come over you tonight?"

"Oh, nothing," said Jane, realizing that she had better be careful what she said, or her mother would start asking a lot of tiresome questions like who was in the boy's family and what did his father do and a lot of things she couldn't answer until she got to know him. If only she knew the boy's name she could look him up in the telephone book and just happen<sup>4</sup> to walk by his house, and he might just happen to be outside washing the car or mowing the lawn or something. She would glance at him with a puzzled expression as if she had seen him someplace but couldn't quite remember where. And he would look up from whatever he was doing and say, "Why, hello. Aren't you the girl who was baby-sitting at the Nortons'?" And she would say ... But she did not know his name and even if she did, he might not even live in Woodmont. He might live in some other town.

Or she could find out where the "Doggie Diner" was located and just happen to walk past about the time he might be through work. Jane considered this idea and discarded<sup>5</sup> it. A business that cut up horse meat would not be in a part of town where she could go for a walk.

Or she could happen to walk by the Nortons' house about three o'clock on Friday afternoon when he might be delivering Cuthbert's food again. Jane thought this over and decided the plan had both advantages and disadvantages. She could easily go for a walk in the Nortons' neighbourhood<sup>6</sup> she could not walk up and down in front of the Nortons' as if she were picketing their house. The neighbours would begin to wonder what she was doing. Nevertheless, a stroll<sup>7</sup> up their street next Friday afternoon could do no harm<sup>8</sup>. He might happen to drive by and see her and think, "Why, there's that girl I spoke to at the Nortons?" He would stop the truck and say, "Hi, there. Going to Sandra's house? If you are I'll give you a lift." And she would say ...

And then Jane had an even better idea. If she were baby-sitting with Sandra she would be sure to see him. She turned this over in her mind. Could she stand another afternoon of Sandra to see that boy again, yes. It would not be easy but she could do it. The boy would arrive with Cuthbert's food and say, "Hi! I didn't expect to see you here again," and of course he would look as if he were glad she was there again. And she would laugh and say ...

It was the first day of the summer holidays, and Tania woke early. The sun was already shining brightly through the window of her bedroom, and the birds were singing. Tania was just about to go back to sleep when she suddenly realized that she was not lying in her own bed at home in Moscow.

Then she remembered. She was staying with her aunt Olga and uncle Alexander, who lived in the country near a small village on the coast.

Tania jumped out of bed, ran to the window, pulled back the curtains, opened the window and looked out across the garden to the fields and woods on the other side of the country road. She was looking forward to wandering through the woods and gardens. She loved the quietness of the countryside, the fresh air, the picturesque lake where she would fish with uncle Alexander.

She could not see the sea from her bedroom, but she was able to hear it. It was a beautiful sound. It was still very early, but she could hear someone downstairs in the kitchen. Someone was listening to the six o'clock news on the radio.

Quietly Tania opened her bedroom door and walked down the stairs to the kitchen. The door was open. Uncle Alexander was having breakfast. He looked up when he heard her at the door and smiled.

Going to a Camp

Ex. 11. Read the text and do the tasks below.

For a lot of families who live in America and Great Britain summer vacations can be a problem. Many mothers work full-time, and there is no one at home to look after the kids while they are off school. So holiday camps are the ideal solution for many families.

About five million American youngsters between 6 and 21 set off for camp every summer. Going to camp is a part of life for millions of them. They can choose among 10,000 camps throughout the USA.

Going to camp is becoming popular in Britain, too.

Most of the camps offer traditional activities such as hiking, riding as well as singing round the camp fire. But there are other kinds of camps, where some kids can get help to improve their grades at school. Hi-tech camps teach computer skills. Athletic camps are also very popular. Youngsters can improve their skills in tennis, golf, or other sports with a training program of about 30 hours a week. They are looked after by counsellors who are often university students and other young people doing summer jobs. A number of these counsellors come from abroad. For non-native speakers among the counsellors it is a great chance to improve their language skills.

What do parents and their children expect to get out of summer camps? There are a few weeks of healthy outdoor living. Many choose camps especially for the social skills which are taught – making friends, living and working together, and becoming independent.

The young people are often a little nervous and many are homesick at first but usually they settle in very quickly. In the end they often find that some of their best friends are from the camp, not from school. And when they have grown up, they like to send their own kids ...

DISCUSSION CLUB

GET YOURSELF LOST<sup>1</sup>

Travellers to new cities are often told to start their trip with a bus tour.

Nonsense! What you see from the inside of a moving bus is unreal and completely removed from the authentic<sup>2</sup> sights, sounds, and smells outside.

Be adventurous<sup>3</sup>! The best way to experience any place is on foot and with absolutely no travel plan. Simply go wherever your feet and your interests lead you. You eventually will get to the same sights that are on the bus tour – the museums, the monuments, city hall – but you will have seen much more. You will have felt the contemporary life of the city.

"But what if I get lost?" people might ask. No one ever gets hopelessly lost in a major city. Eventually, you can find your way back to a well-known location. If it frightens you to be "lost", just find a taxi and go back to where you started. However, the nicest things can happen if you get lost. You stop at a sidewalk<sup>4</sup> cafe to sit and relax. You ask instructions of the local people at the next table. And even if they don't speak your language, your trip becomes more memorable because of the experience. Here are a few more ways to get the most out of your travel.

- ✓ Know before you go. Spend a few hours before your trip learning about the history and culture of your destination<sup>5</sup>. This will help you understand what you're seeing.
- ✓ Move around like a local. Use the subways and buses of the city you're visiting. You'll not only save money, but you'll also learn how people really live.
- ✓ Check the bulletin boards. Sometimes you can find advertisements for free<sup>6</sup> concerts and other fun activities on bulletin boards around universities.

So the next time you see a poster advertising an introductory bus tour, save your money. Instead, wander<sup>7</sup> on your own. I promise you a time you'll remember with great pleasure.

(from "Passages")

SUGGESTIONS FOR WRITING

HOLIDAY POSTCARDS

Ex. 14. A. Read Sarah's holiday card written to her friend Svetlana about her holiday.

July, 15

Dear Svetlana,

Greetings from Maine where the water is too cold for us to go swimming, but the scenery is beautiful. We're having a great time, and we've enjoyed every place that we've visited.

This week we're in Bar Harbor, which is a lovely island town. The place is absolutely full of tourists!

Tonight we're going for a ride on a boat that will take us to one of the nearby islands. James, who has been here before, has already taken me hiking and to the Bar Harbor Music Festival. It's been fun!

What about you? How are your holidays? What is the weather like?

WE'RE HAVING A GREAT TIME!

Dear Olga,

How are you? Charles and I are having a great time here in London. We've been here for a week now, and we've already seen a lot of the city... but there's much more to see.

On our first day we took a bus tour around London and saw a lot of the famous sights - Buckingham Palace, the Tower of London, Trafalgar Square. I especially liked seeing Big Ben, the famous clock at the top of the Houses of Parliament. There are many beautiful buildings in London. Charles has already taken a lot of pictures!

We've visited the British Museum, where we saw things from ancient Greece and Rome. We've also taken a guided tour of St. Paul's Cathedral, the huge church where Prince Charles and Princess Diana got married.

We've both enjoyed every minute of our stay here so far. London is a beautiful city. We haven't been to Hyde Park yet or to Westminster Abbey, but we'll be here for another week, so we still have lots of time.

How do you spend your holidays? Where do you usually go and what do you usually do?

Lots of love,

Barbara

READING

The events in the story aren't in chronological order. Decide on the correct order of events.

After passing his exams 18-year-old Alex decided to travel to Australia to visit his father Tom who lived there. The father and the son went on a trip to Queensland. On their way they had to stop at a river that crossed the road. A sign said:

DANGER - CROCODILES!

A. Alex turned and looked back through the rear window at the rainforest. It had remained untouched for thousands of years. Now, all that had changed, and if strict laws were not soon made, the rain forest and everything in it would disappear for ever.

"It's so sad," he said.

Tom nodded. "People can be very, very stupid," he agreed angrily.

B. The next couple of days went far too quickly for Alex. He and Tom went walking through the rainforest; they followed the boardwalk through the swamp; they rode horses along the sandy beach; they visited a crocodile reserve. Alex found himself surrounded by birds and insects, trees and flowers that he had only seen before on television.

C. Alex grinned. He knew all about the Great Barrier Reef, of course. He'd learnt about it in geography lessons and had always wanted to see the multicoloured coral for himself. Now he was going to do just that.

"Is it as wonderful as it looks on film?" he asked.

"Better," Tom answered. "A million times better."

D. But, Tom was not eaten by a crocodile. Even more fortunately, at its deepest, the water only came up to Tom's knees, and the jeep crossed the river with no problems. Two hours later, they arrived at a hostel, deep within the rainforest at the foot of Mount Sorrow.

E. After a final walk – to the top of Mount Sorrow – Tom and Alex packed up the jeep and left. By midday, they were back at the river which had been so full and fast before. Now, it was just a shallow stream and Tom drove across easily.

F. "It's fantastic!" Alex said, again and again, as he saw more and more wonderful sights. "Really fantastic!"

"I'm glad you like it," said Tom. "I love it here. The trouble is, it's all changing. People from the cities are buying up the land and building holiday homes. Slowly but surely, the forest is being destroyed."

G. Alex looked at Tom. The trip had been wonderful so far. And yet it was not how Alex had imagined it would be. He felt somehow that he had lost a father, but found a friend.

H. As they left the rainforest behind and the road improved, Tom began to cheer up.

"I thought we'd take her out onto the reef," he said.

"The Great Barrier Reef," Alex said excitedly.

"That's the one," Tom smiled.

"The water came above Tom's knees so we could walk across the river easily. It took us all afternoon to reach the hostel at the top of Mount Sorrow. The next seven days were fantastic. We rode horses through the rain forest; we walked along the beach, and we visited a crocodile reserve. Everywhere I went I saw amazing insects, birds, flowers and trees I had only read about before. On the final day we walked down Mount Sorrow and arrived back at the river by the evening. It was strange how the river, so shallow on our first day, was now very full and we only just managed to drive across. Tom has promised to take me to the Great Barrier Reef. I'm really looking forward to seeing it!

PROBLEMS OF A BIG CITY

Discuss the following questions:

What do you think the main problems of big cities are?

What problems does your city have?

Ex. 1. You'll read two articles expressing different points of view on the problem of big cities. Read the texts quickly and tell your partner what they are about.

MEGACITIES: TWO VIEWS

Megacity is a city with a population of five million and more

1. The world's population is not only growing, it is also becoming more urbanized. An increasing number of people are moving to cities in the hope of having a better life. The cities promise steady work and higher salaries. With more money, people think they can provide for their families more easily.

As the population becomes more urbanized, megacities are created. Yes, there are more jobs in urban areas, but is the quality of life better in these megacities? A quick survey<sup>1</sup> of several major cities reveals<sup>2</sup> some of their problems: pollution from auto emissions is poisoning the air; landfills<sup>3</sup> are overflowing with garbage. With declining<sup>4</sup> resources and growing competition, sometimes there is not enough food. These are all very serious problems.

We cannot get rid<sup>5</sup> of megacities – they are here to stay. What we should concentrate on, however, is building “villages” inside the cities. These “urban villages” could be self-sufficient<sup>6</sup> and grow their own food. The members of these villages would recycle<sup>7</sup> and do very little damage to the environment. The villages would serve the needs of the local people, not big business. We need to limit large-scale development, not encourage it.

2. It's true that megacities have problems, but these have been exaggerated<sup>8</sup>. The truth of the matter is that people move to cities to escape<sup>9</sup> their hard life in the country. Urban areas, even with their problems, offer people a better life than in rural areas. The old ways of life in rural areas have broken down, and it is now very difficult to make a living as a farmer.

People live longer in the cities. Medical care is better there. And of course, employment opportunities can be found everywhere in the city. We should continue to develop city services so that people can enjoy their lives in the world's urban centers.

Rather than limiting development, we should encourage it. Public transportation systems need to be developed so that people can travel to and from work and school easily. The more we clean up and develop our megacities, the more life will improve for the residents of those cities.

MEXICO<sup>1</sup> CITY – AN ECOLOGICAL TRAGEDY

Ex. 5. Read the text and compare your ideas.

According to United Nations Mexico City is the world's fourth-biggest city (after Tokyo, Sao Paulo and New York). But no one really knows how many people live here: most estimates are around 20 million.

Spread across some 2000 sq km of the Valle de Mexico, 2200m high at the heart of the country, Mexico City is a great cosmopolitan megalopolis. All the extremes of Mexico the country are here: one moment the city is glamour<sup>2</sup>, color and music, the next it's poverty and foul<sup>3</sup> smells. This is a city of Aztec pyramids, colonial palaces, world-famous cultural treasures, and sprawling slums<sup>4</sup>, of heavy traffic and quiet, peaceful plazas; of fine boulevards<sup>5</sup> and slum streets; of huge wealth and miserable poverty; of green parks and brown air.

Mexico City is an ecological tragedy. What was once a beautiful highland valley with abundant<sup>6</sup> water and forests now has some of the least breathable air on the planet and only scattered pockets of greenery. It faces the real prospect of serious water shortages<sup>7</sup> in the not too distant future. It is one of the world's most crowded areas, as well as one of the most polluted.

The city's severe traffic and industrial pollution is intensified by the mountains that ring the Valle de Mexico and prevent air from dispersing, and by the altitude<sup>8</sup> lack of oxygen (air at high altitudes contains less oxygen than air at sea level).

But the major problem is ozone.

The city's average ozone level is almost twice the maximum permitted in the USA and Japan. The major ozone producer is low-lead gasoline<sup>9</sup>, introduced in 1986. But despite its environmental and economic problems, Mexico City is a magnet to Mexicans and visitors.

7. shortage – нехватки
8. altitude ['æltitju:d] – высота над уровнем моря

1. TRAFFIC PROBLEMS TAKE BIG BITE<sup>1</sup> OF COMMUTERS' TIME

WASHINGTON – The nation's traffic problems are getting worse faster than they can be fixed<sup>2</sup>. A solution to ever-growing traffic jams<sup>3</sup> isn't likely to come soon.

CITIES IN A JAM

The wait in the largest urban areas:

City	Hours
Los Angeles	93
San Francisco	73
Washington	67
Dallas	61
Atlanta	60
Houston	58
Riverside, Calif	57
Chicago	56
Boston	54
Detroit	53

The average urban commuter<sup>4</sup> was stuck in traffic 46 hours a year in 2002, compared to 16 hours spent in traffic in 1982.

In 54 cities, traffic jams increased 30% faster than roads could be built.

Notes:

1. bite – (фиг.) откусить большой кусок

2. fix – (зд.) урегулировать

3. traffic jam [dʒæm] – пробка на дороге

4. commuter – (зд.) все, кто передвигаются по дорогам от дома до работы (как водитель, так и пассажир)

2. AMERICANS AND THEIR AUTOMOBILES

The daily chaos on American roads costs the US economy many millions of dollars a year.

Like television, the automobile is firmly rooted<sup>1</sup> in modern American life. Over 80% of American workers commute daily to their jobs in private cars, and a large number of American families own two or more cars. The landscape of the United States has been noticeably affected by the automobile. Stores, restaurants and whole towns are usually planned to accommodate<sup>2</sup> large numbers of cars. Even in a densely<sup>3</sup> populated urban area, a grocery store can look absurdly small in comparison with the huge parking lot designed for its customers. Recently many Americans have felt extremely critical of the traditional attitude towards the automobile as a symbol of freedom and democracy. Some families have tried living without their cars – at least temporarily. Quite surprisingly, for many people the change was easy – and unexpectedly enjoyable. Some Americans clearly feel that the time will come – possibly in the not very distant future – when the automobile becomes socially and economically obsolete<sup>4</sup>. Others are not so sure ...

Notes:

1. root – укорениться

2. accommodate – вместиться

3. densely – плотно

4. obsolete – устаревший

3. THE THROW-AWAY SOCIETY

Many countries bury and forget millions of tons of rubbish<sup>1</sup> every year.

How do we get rid of this rubbish? We find or dig huge holes in the ground and fill them with this stuff. These are known as "landfill sites"<sup>2</sup>.

These 20 million tons of rubbish pose major environmental problem polluting big cities. It is a slow and unseen menace<sup>3</sup>. Methane gas given off by decaying organic matter can build up and explode<sup>4</sup>. Toxic materials poison<sup>5</sup> the water and air and pose a longterm threat to our food chain.

But a lot of what we throw away is still useful. The glass, plastic, metal, oil, textile, paper, cardboard, battery content we send to landfill is potentially very valuable because it is a concentrated source of many raw materials. Rubbish can be also burnt to generate electricity and heat our homes. But we don't have to throw away all our waste paper, glass, metal, plastic. We can recycle a lot of it. In fact waste can be very useful stuff.

Notes:

1. rubbish ['rʌbɪʃ] – мусор, хлам
2. landfill site ['lændfɪl] – свалка
3. menace (threat) ['menæs] [θret] – угроза, опасность
4. explode [ɪksp'loʊd] – взрываться
5. poison – отравлять

2. Traffic problems are getting worse.
3. The automobile is firmly rooted in modern American life.

READING

Read the text and find out the answers to the questions below.

History never has known a city which has grown to its proportions in so short a time. From its first settlements by the Dutch and British, and later by millions of immigrants from all parts of the world New York City rapidly flourished to become the financial, commercial and cultural capital of the continent. It has developed a unique lifestyle which has become known throughout the world. Frequently the New York City lifestyle is criticized, but more often it is imitated, and never is it as "at home". New York City is called the "Big Apple". In 1609 Henry Hudson, an Englishman explored the Hudson River which now bears his name. The harbor, which is considered to be one of the best in the world, was a prime factor in the city's rise to world prominence. It ranks as one of the world's largest ports.

The early history of New York City took place in the small area from the Battery to about where Wall Street now stands. The

New York Stock Exchange began its rich history operating on a Wall Street in 1792. In 1700 the first library was opened and the new City Hall, was completed. On the steps of Federal Hall George Washington was inaugurated the first President of the United States in 1789. With the establishment of the new nation, open immigration began, it is one of the most remarkable phenomenon of modern history. As the gate to the New World, New York City was called the "melting pot" of the nation. More than 27 million immigrants arrived to the city. Each group of immigrants brought with them a special way of life from their homeland. In their eagerness to build a new life, they sometimes toiled<sup>4</sup> for endless hours. Their efforts contributed to the rapid growth of the city and their diverse backgrounds<sup>5</sup> enriched the city's culture. Today in New York City, there are more people with Irish, Italian and Jewish ancestry than in Dublin, Rome or Tel Aviv.

New York City is a composite of many different sections which largely have retained the names of their original independent communities or derived their names from their geographical location. Examples of some of these include Harlem, Greenwich Village, Chinatown, the Lower East Side, and Little Italy on Mulberry Street. Settled by almost 4 million Italian immigrants between 1890 and 1924 the area is still distinctly Italian and it holds a week long celebration in September during the Feast of San Gennaro. In Chinatown, you will find pagoda-like telephone booths in an Oriental atmosphere containing the greatest concentration of Chinese restaurants in America.

Its most famous thoroughfare<sup>6</sup> is Broadway, which is popularly called the Great White Way. Among New York's most famous streets are the Bowery; Wall Street, representing the financial heart of the nation; Central Park's South and West, Park Avenue, and Sutton Place, expensive residential sections; Madison Avenue, the home of the advertising business; and Fifth Avenue, famous for its exclusive shops. New York is a city of a glorious history, but fortunately it is too young to be bound by traditions. Today, instead of the "melting pot", New York City is more appropriately<sup>7</sup> referred to as the "salad bowl", because time has taught that while cultures and ethnic groups have mixed, each still has maintained a separate identity. It is these differences in culture which create an ever changing aura, giving one the impression of being in several or more different cities at one time.

ENGLISH IN MY LIFE

Discuss the following questions:

What role do languages play in your life?

Why is it important to learn foreign languages?

Ex. 1. Read the text and find English equivalents for the Russian phrases after the text.

ENGLISH WORLDWIDE

English today is spoken on every continent. It is the most important or the official language in over 60 countries. It is the main language of business people and the one most often used in international tourism. About 85% of all messages sent on the Internet are in English.

After the fall of the British Empire English remained important in the 20th century because it was the language of the world's leading economic power, the United States. Today the US, with about 230 million people who speak English as their first language, contains nearly four times as many<sup>1</sup> English speakers as Britain (60 million), the next largest country with a large number of native speakers of the language. And Britain itself has almost twice as many native speakers as Australia and Canada together, which both have about 16 million each. Worldwide, about 400 million people speak English as their first language.

It is therefore not surprising that so many people want to learn English. In Europe alone, about 80% of young people who learn a foreign language choose English. They learn it because they may need it later in their jobs, or when travelling, or because they want to read books or magazines, listen to pop songs or watch films in English. And Europe is a typical example of an international trend. English is especially popular in countries like China and Indonesia, with their huge populations. So a language which 500 years ago was only used by a few million people in Britain is now spoken or learned by about a quarter to a third of the world's population. Quite a success story!

SUGGESTIONS FOR WRITING

A. This is a passage from Masha's letter to her friend who spends her holidays in the country. Masha has just returned from Britain where she took a summer course at London Language School. Read the letter and write an answer.

When I studied in Britain I stayed with a British family. It was great. I spoke only English and I've learnt a lot about an English home.

I also studied more hours in the UK than at home. In Moscow I did about six hours a week only, whereas in Britain I had English every day.

The teaching methods were almost the same but you learn more quickly in Britain because you have to speak English to other people in the class.

It is not the same as learning English at home, because the students come from all over the world and you have to speak English to them. I liked that but sometimes I wished there was someone else from my country.

One of the best things about studying in Britain was that I learnt English outside the classroom. I practised my English all the time.

What do you think about the importance of studying languages? What are the best ways of learning for you?

B. Write a short essay: How English can help you in your future career. You may think of the following questions:

- What do you want to be?
- Will English be important for your future career?
- Would you like to work for a Russian or a foreign company?
- Would you like to take up linguistics?
- Would you like to improve your English after leaving school?
- Is English important to you in everyday life?
- Where can you use English in Russia?
- Do you listen to English songs?
- Do you watch TV in English?

READING

You have asked your English teacher for more information about language courses, and he/she has given you a leaflet called What you should know about language courses. Your parents, who don't speak English well, want to know what is important.

When you go to a country like England or the USA, you can't avoid English. Even when you are not studying, you're still learning. When you go shopping, take a bus or just watch television, English is all around you. In fact, you are learning 24 hours a day because the chances are you'll soon be dreaming in English!

You can of course find some very expensive courses, especially if you are studying one-to-one and staying in a hotel. But if you look for a group course with host family accommodation, you can and some very low-cost programmes. It also depends on the time of year. Prices tend to be higher during the summer holidays.

One of the advantages of a language holiday is that the other students come from all over the world. This means that you can study in a class that is not full of students who speak your language. Many schools have rules to make sure that no more than 15% of the students in the same class speak the same native language.

In general, you are responsible for your own travel arrangements, although schools are usually happy to tell you the best way to travel. You should certainly ask them for details of airports, trains and so on. Schools sometimes arrange for somebody to pick you up at the airport for an extra charge.

Many schools offer a wide range of cultural activities such as a visit to a museum or the theatre. Also, a lot of schools have a number of sporting activities such as golf or horse riding. These activities are often included in your programme, although you may have to pay for additional activities, which you can choose when you arrive.

QUESTIONS AND NEGATIVES

Вопросительные и отрицательные предложения

С точки зрения построения вопроса и отрицания все глаголы можно разделить на две группы:

1. Глаголы, образующие вопрос путем простого изменения порядка слов.
2. Глаголы, которым для образования вопроса требуется вспомогательный глагол.

Глаголы, образующие вопрос путем простого изменения порядка слов (выдвижения глагола на место перед подлежащим)

be (am, is, are, was, were)	<input type="checkbox"/> He is a student. – Is he a student? <input type="checkbox"/> They are working now. – Are they working now?

Отрицательные предложения образуются путем добавления частицы not к соответствующей форме глагола	<input type="checkbox"/> He was not (wasn't) at home at that time. <input type="checkbox"/> He has not (hasn't) come yet. <input type="checkbox"/> You may not (mayn't) leave the camp after sunset.

В русском языке такие предложения обычно начинаются со слов:

именно, это, лишь, только или выделяемые слова выносятся в начало предложения.

I met him in the park yesterday.

- ☐ It was him that I met in the park. Именно его я встретила в парке.
- ☐ It was yesterday that I met him. Это вчера я его встретила.
- ☐ It was in the park that I met him. В парке я его встретила.

THE ENVIRONMENTAL CRISIS – NUMBER ONE INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM

We are in an environmental crisis because human beings have broken out the circle of life and are destroying the environment.

What does the word "Environment" mean?

Ex. 1. Read the text and say what you have learnt about the environmental crisis.

A. What does the environmental crisis mean? To understand this we must begin at the source of life itself: the earth's thin skin of air, water and soil, bathed by the radiant solar fire. Life appeared on the Earth several billion years ago. Living things formed a global network, where everything is directly or indirectly dependent on everything. This is the ecosphere (biosphere), the home that life has built for itself on the planet.

B. In nature all processes are in constant balanced interaction. The environmental crisis means that this perfect and delicate balance has begun to break down.

C. The environmental catastrophe continues to accelerate. The ozone layer is thinning. Acid rain is destroying huge areas of forest and tens of thousands of lakes. We pollute our rivers, lakes and oceans, and the sky, forgetting that we need water and air to live and breathe. We destroy rainforests, picturesque landscapes and kill the world's most beautiful animals. And, worst of all, the earth is steadily warming with potentially dangerous effects. That is why the environmentalists of the world call for fundamental changes NOW!

SUGGESTIONS FOR WRITING

Read the letter, find the things that make our Mother-Earth suffer. Underline these phrases. Write an article (150–200 words) to a youth magazine “What we can do to save our blue planet”.

My dear children,

I am dying, and I want to take one last opportunity to tell you how much I love you and how much your actions have hurt me.

I gave life to your parents and their parents before them. I provided you with food, with fresh water and with clean air to breathe.

The rivers and seas are my life blood. You have clogged<sup>1</sup> my arteries with your sewage<sup>2</sup> and with chemicals from your factories. This has killed so much of the sea life which was there for your benefit<sup>3</sup>.

You have been greedy<sup>4</sup>. You have over-fished and over-hunted.

I can no longer breathe because you have cut down so many of my life-giving trees. Without their vital oxygen<sup>5</sup> we will all die, but you put profit<sup>6</sup> before our very lives, and my tears have now turned to acid rain.

My face is marked and scarred<sup>7</sup> by your bombs and guns and my body is the burial ground for the victims of your wars.

I have said good bye to many old friends who will soon be joined by others: the tiger, the elephant, the rhinoceros and the panda. Unless you act now, they will be joined by you and me.

Please help me!

EARTH DAY

Imagine a day when 500 million people from 184 countries around the world come together to celebrate and protest with a single purpose in mind. This is just what happened on April 22nd, 2000. The day was Earth Day, and the purpose that the people had in mind was to work for a healthier and safer world for everyone. It was the biggest celebration of its kind in human history.

But April 22nd, 2000 was not the first Earth Day. In fact, it was the 30th anniversary of the first Earth Day celebration. In 1962, Gaylord Nelson, a US Senator, looked at the world around him and saw lakes and rivers polluted by rubbish and chemicals, forests that were slowly being destroyed every day, and towns and cities full of smog and car exhaust. Senator Nelson felt that the Government was not doing nearly enough to protect the environment. So he spent the next eight years travelling round the USA and talking to all sorts of people about pollution and other dangers that were harming the planet.

Finally, on April 22nd, 1970, Senator Nelson and a group of university students organized the first Earth Day. The event was much more successful than the organizers had ever expected: over 20 million people – young and old, rich and poor, city people and country people – took part.

Today, Earth Day is celebrated all over the world, and some countries even celebrate Earth Week the week before April 22nd, and Earth Month throughout the whole month of April. Over 5,000 different environmental organizations are connected by the Internet, and they help people in their communities to plan demonstrations, campaigns, talks and other activities. But the idea is the same as it was in 1970, millions of people from all over the planet rich and poor, old and young, who want to build healthier and safer world take part.

The problems that Gaylord Nelson saw everywhere in the 1960s still exist, and now we know about things like global warming and acid rain that most people could not even imagine 40 years ago. We need Earth Day today more than ever. So what can we do? Many young people participate through the schools on Earth Day. They organize clean-up campaigns or pick up rubbish in their communities. Others write letters to their Council asking for more environmental protection laws. Still others organize marches to promote recycling and other energy saving activities. But perhaps the best way to celebrate Earth Day is to follow the organizers' advice: "Do something nice for the Earth, have fun, meet new people, and make a difference".

ACID RAIN

Acid rain is caused by burning coal or oil. When either fuel is burned, it releases poisonous (ядовитый) gases which are carried up into the atmosphere and sometimes transported long distances.

Over 3,000 research projects have been carried out to look into acid rain, and a decision to solve the problem has been taken in most of the western European countries. Measures have been taken in Scandinavia and in Central Europe to stop the pollution before it has destroyed the environment, and a diplomatic campaign has been launched to convince other countries that the problem has to be considered as a major ecological threat.

'Five years ago this issue was not being treated seriously,' says one leading environmental group, 'but now that damage has been reported in large areas of forest and lakeland, our politicians are being forced to take action. This problem must be solved quickly: if governments do nothing, they will be faced in two or three years' time with the accusation that they have allowed our forests to die.'

Unit 7

MASS MEDIA & TV

Discuss the following questions:

What mass media do you know?

What are your favourite? Do you like to watch TV? Why? (Why not?)

Track

Ex. 1. Read the text and answer the questions after it.

The term mass media in English refers basically to TV, radio and newspapers – means of communication which reach very large numbers of people.

Can you think of a day when you haven't seen a newspaper, when you haven't listened to the radio or watched television? The media are as much a part of our daily lives as the landscape.

The Press

It has been claimed<sup>1</sup> that no country buys as many daily newspapers per person as Britain. On an average day two out of three adults regularly read a national morning newspaper.

There are about 200 daily and Sunday newspapers, 1,300 weekly newspapers and about 7,500 periodicals in Britain.

The national newspapers can be divided into two groups according to their layout<sup>3</sup> and the way they treat the news: the quality papers and the popular or tabloid papers.

While the quality papers usually try to inform their readers as widely as possible about national and international news, the popular press aims to attract general readers with sensational news mixed with decorative photographs.

Tabloid usually has a smaller format than a quality newspaper, it has large headlines and shorter stories and, in Britain, it prefers stories about film stars, crimes, the royal<sup>4</sup> family.

There are national and regional papers. The national papers circulate throughout the British Isles; the regional papers provide general and local news of interest to the readers in the area where they are produced.

There are about 8,000 periodicals published in Britain: from fiction<sup>5</sup> magazines to learned publications. A journal is a name given to an academic magazine.

Periodicals are generally classified as general, specialized, trade, technical and professional and include magazines for a wide range of interest: women's magazines, dealing<sup>6</sup> with sport, gardening, cooking, computer, hobbies, pop music, motoring. The "Economist" is the leading journal of opinion. It comments on events of international, political and economic life.

There are also comics. A comic is a magazine for children or teenagers, with lots of picture stories or cartoons<sup>7</sup>.

There is no censorship of the press and there are no specific press laws in Britain. The press has generally the freedom to comment on any matter of public interest.

But, a newspaper may not publish comments on individual people or organizations which are untrue or can do them harm.

NOTES:

- 1 claim – утверждать
- 2 average – средний
- 3 layout ['leɪaʊt] – макет (газеты)
- 4 royal ['rɔɪəl] – королевский
- 5 fiction [fɪkʃn] – художественный
- 6 deal with – иметь дело с, касаться чего-либо
- 7 cartoon [ˌkɑːtuːn] – карикатура

MOVE TO CREAT MORE JOBS

Respect and reform emerged as the key themes of Labour's third term today, as the Queen unveiled the government's programme for the next 18 months.

A total of 45 bills were set out for the coming parliamentary session, which lasts until next November. The programme shows a strong emphasis on low-level crime, on terrorism and on continuing health and education reform and expansion.

The speech, written by Downing Street but delivered by the Queen in the House of Lords after a highly elaborate ceremony, said the government was committed to "fostering a culture of respect".

The most controversial measures are likely to be the reintroduced bills for identity cards and for an offence of inciting religious hatred, although a draft counter-terrorism bill could prove provocative too.

Council tax bills in England are set to rise by up to ten times the rate of inflation following Tony Blair's decision to transfer government funds from Tory suburbs in the South to Labour heartlands in the North.

The rise, the biggest since the council tax was introduced in 1993, was condemned by the Conservatives yesterday as a stealth tax that would raise bills for ordinary families to well over 31,000 a year. Local government experts called the rise shocking, and said that they would put pressure on John Prescott, the Deputy Prime Minister, to reintroduce capping.

TELEVISION

3. Read the text. Match the headings below to the paragraphs (there is one extra paragraph).

LIFE WITH THE BOX

1. Television belongs to the twentieth century. John Baird from Scotland was one of the first men to send pictures of moving things by electric waves. His friends who lived a few miles away were able to receive these pictures at the same time.

2. In 1929 he showed that colour TV was possible. Although he had discovered all this, there were other people who also wanted to make television systems and later in 1936 a system from America was first used in Britain.

3. Today in Britain and the USA television is very popular. Ninety-nine per cent of all households own at least one TV and over half of these also own videorecorders. Television has an enormous effect on Americans. Politicians know all about this. They try to make their big public speeches at times when they can get the largest audiences on the evening news programmes. Advertisers, too, understand the power of television. They are willing to spend billions of dollars a year on television.

4. In Britain the average adult watches twenty-six hours of television a week and children watch about twenty hours. Some Americans watch twice as much! People say too much television is bad for children because they just watch the pictures and don't think – but they can also learn a lot from TV.

5. At present there are four television channels in operation: BBC 1, BBC 2, ITV and Channel 4. BBC 1 concentrates more on programmes of general interest, such as light entertainment, comedy, sport or children's programmes. BBC 2 provides serious programmes: drama, documentaries, classical music, including occasionally full-length operas. If we watch the news programmes, we can see what is happening all over the world.

6. The news about American television is not all bad. For one thing, Americans themselves are turning off the more violent shows and watching more comedy and news programmes. For another, the news programmes themselves are becoming more interesting. The most popular is "60 Minutes". If you haven't watched it on Sunday, you won't know what your friends are talking about on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

- ☐ 1. The most popular leisure activity.
- ☐ 2. The invention of television.
- ☐ 3. British television channels.
- ☐ 4. Television and children.

BROADCASTING

BBC was established in 1926. BBC has four national radio channels, each designed to cater for people of different interests. Radio 1 offers rock and pop music. Radio 2, apart from providing music and light entertainment, is the main channel for the coverage of sport. Radio 3 broadcasts classical music and operas, classical dramas, poetry as well as documentaries and special talks. Radio 4 provides news programmes and current affairs service covering all main fields, as well as plays, features and panel games.

The BBC also has 32 local radio stations which concentrate on local news and local affairs. There are 47 independent local radio stations throughout Britain.

The BBC External Services regularly transmit programmes in English and 36 other languages by radio world-wide in order to give news, present British culture and developments in science and technology as well as to provide lessons in the English language. ## SUGGESTIONS FOR WRITING

Can you draw a line between a hobby and a bad habit? Read the article and write what you think about it.

THE COUCH POTATOES

Do you like spending evenings in front of the TV eating and drinking while you watch hour after hour of television programmes?

If so, you have already become a "Couch Potato"! The Couch Potatoes are a special group of TV viewers in America who believe that the more television you watch the better. These people sometimes sit in front of the box for twelve hours nonstop. One group of Couch Potatoes in San Francisco meets regularly to watch nine different television sets at the same time. This is a problem in America because in some areas you can watch over thirty TV programmes.

Usually the Couch Potatoes just sit in front of the TV with enough Coke to drink and as many bags of potato crisps as they can eat.

Why do they watch so much TV? Jack Mingo, one of the leaders of the Couch Potatoes says, "It makes sense to watch a lot of TV because life is too short to do everything you want to do. More things happen on TV in a month than could possibly happen in your whole life!"

These ideas may help you:

- They eat too much junk food.

READING

Ex. 10. Read the article and fill in the missing sentences below. There is one sentence which you don't need to use.

CHANGING MINDS, LIVES AND SKILLS

Studies have shown that television and its meteoric rise since the 1950s has had more effect than any other technological development in this century on changing the way many of us live. Used rightly, television can be a wonderful medium to inform, expand and broaden one's life. (1) It can open up important knowledge about news, events, of different people, of history, the arts and sciences.

Typically, the typical channels mainly ignore such development. Their programmes are light and amusing. (2) They no longer realize, or care, that they may be neglecting to develop important personal abilities. Let's so easy to let ready-made entertainment take over, to just sit back and let someone entertain us.

One study in the US found that more than half of all elementary school children watched TV while eating their evening meal. An even larger percentage watched while doing homework. (3)

Logic and putting ideas together are processes supported by regular reading and by having time to think about events. TV, by contrast, usually presents its messages in little, rapid clumps with little information as to how and why the events took shape.

Heavy television viewing kills the initiative to take an active part in outdoor games, which is essential for a child's development. And, at its worst, television entertainment is filled with false ideals, morals, ethics, relationships, role-models and, of course, violence.

(adapted from "The Plain Truth", July 1990)

- ☐ a) Many adults spend more hours passively before TV than in any other activity except sleep.
- ☐ b) It can enlarge our understanding of the world.
- ☐ c) Many people have become hooked on certain forms of commercial entertainment.

- ☐ d) Educators are also concerned with the steady decline in children's physical skills.
- ☐ e) Many authorities have noted a drop in students' ability to think clearly.

GRAMMAR

THE SEQUENCE OF TENSES Согласование времен

В английском языке, в отличие от русского, при переводе прямой речи в косвенную действует правило согласования времен, которое заключается в следующем:

Если сказуемое главного предложения выражено глаголом в прошедшем времени, то сказуемое придаточного предложения (преимущественно дополнительного) не может употребляться в форме настоящего или будущего времени – оно должно быть выражено одним из прошедших времен.

Согласно простому практическому правилу в этом случае все времена в придаточном предложении сдвигаются на одну ступеньку вниз:

Present Simple ( do/does )	Past Simple ( did )
Present Progressive ( am/is/are doing )	Past Progressive ( was/were doing )
Past Simple ( did )	Past Perfect ( had done )
Present Perfect ( have/has done )	Past Perfect ( had done )
will	would
can; may; must; should	could; might; must (had to); should

Изменяются также местоимения и обстоятельства:

here	⇒	there
this	⇒	that
these	⇒	those
now	⇒	then
today	⇒	that day
yesterday	⇒	the day before
a year ago	⇒	a year before
last night	⇒	the previous night
tonight	⇒	that night

□ "I live here." – He said that he lived there.

SCHOOL AND SCHOOL LIFE

Discuss the following questions:

What associations do you have with this word "school"?

What is your usual school day?

What subjects do you like? Why?

Track

Ex. 1. Read the text.

There are probably many differences between going to school in Britain and in our country. Read the text to find out some information about schools in Britain. Complete the chart.

Age	Type of school

The Garners, who live in Newcastle, have got three children. Jimmy Garner, the youngest, is ten; he is at a junior school. When he was five, he started at an infant school, which is a school for children from five to seven years of age. A junior school is for children from seven to eleven years of age. Infant and junior schools are called primary schools.

Jimmy is not very interested in reading, writing and arithmetic. He prefers riding his new bike and playing with his hamsters.

Jimmy's brother Peter, who is 14, is at a comprehensive school. When Peter is 16, he will leave school. Peter is interested in cars and engines and wants to be a car mechanic. About 80% of the pupils in England go to a comprehensive school.

Peter is the captain of the school's soccer<sup>1</sup> team. In English schools, sport plays an important part. Every school has its own team for soccer, rugby, football, netball<sup>2</sup> etc. Jimmy, however, is not very interested in playing games himself. He prefers watching them on TV. In fact, he is a bit lazy.

Ann Garner, who is 16, likes German and French best. Ann is going to study two more years to take A-level<sup>3</sup> exams at 18. If she gets good grades, she will go to university to study these two languages. She wants to be a language teacher. She plays in the hockey team of her school.

Notes:

1. soccer ['sɒkə] – football with a spherical ball

2. netball – a game similar to basketball

3. A-level (Advanced level) – higher level academic exams. They are taken mostly by people around the age of 18 who wish to go to higher education.

Ex. 2. Read the text again and answer the questions.

1. Where do the Garners live?
2. At what age did Jimmy start school?
3. How many years must Jimmy go to a primary school?
4. Which are the three main subjects taught at primary school?
5. What type of school is Peter at?
6. What does Peter want to be when he leaves school?
7. What does Ann hope to do when she is 18?

Ex. 3. Read the text and answer the questions.

AT SIXTEEN AND AFTER

In Britain sixteen is a crucial<sup>1</sup> age. This is when young people have to decide whether to stay at school, to go on to a college, to look for a job or to start some Youth Training Programme.

Most pupils take their GCSE<sup>2</sup> exams when they are sixteen. Those who get good grades can stay for further two years and sit for their A-level exams. Good A-level results make it possible for the pupils to go on to further education<sup>3</sup> in a university or polytechnic<sup>4</sup>.

If one got good grades in GCSE but doesn't want to do A-levels, he can study for a vocational diploma at colleges of further education, which offer a number of vocationally oriented courses for 16-18-year-olds and prepare young people for work in various occupations such as business, engineering, administration, catering<sup>5</sup>, tourism.

About a third of 16-year-olds go straight out and look for a job. But most of them do not find employment immediately because the general level of unemployment is rather high.

Some take part in training schemes which involve on-the-job training combined with part-time college courses. Others do vocational training for particular jobs or career.

Notes:

1. crucial ['kru:ʃl] – решающий, важный
2. GCSE (General Certificate of Secondary Education) – the exams taken by most 15-16-year-olds in Britain. Marks are given for all the subjects separately, however, there is a uniform system of marks, all being graded from A to G. Grades A, B and C are good grades.
3. further education – продолжение образования
4. polytechnic – высшие учебные заведения, соответствующие техническим вузам в России
5. catering – обслуживание

1. When can young people leave school in Britain? 2. Why is 16 a crucial age? 3. What alternatives do young people have after taking GCSE at 16? 4. What is GCSE? 5. What is A-levels? 6. How long does it take to prepare for A-level exams? 7. Can one enter a University after passing GCSE's? 8. What do people study at colleges of further education? 9. Do young people have an opportunity to study if they go straight out working after school?

SUGGESTION FOR WRITING

Read the article. Do you really think that technology will change the way we learn?

WILL TECHNOLOGY REPLACE SCHOOLS?

Some people believe that soon schools will no longer be necessary. These people say that because of the Internet and other new technology, there is no longer any need for school buildings, formal classes, or teachers. Perhaps this will be true one day, but it is hard for me to imagine a world without schools. In fact, we need to look at how we can use new technology to make schools better – not to eliminate them.

We should invent a new kind of school that is linked to libraries, museums, science centers, laboratories, and even corporations. Independent experts could give talks on video or over the Internet. TV networks and local stations could develop programming about things students are actually studying in school. Laboratories could demonstrate new technology in the Internet.

Is this just a dream? No. Already there are several towns where this is beginning to happen. Blacksburg, Virginia, is one of them. Here the entire city is linked to the Internet, and learning can take place at home, at school, and in the office. The schools provide computer labs for people without their own computers at home. Everyone can visit distant libraries and museums as easily as nearby ones.

How will this new kind of school change learning? It is too early to be sure, but it is very exciting to think about. Technology will change the way we learn; schools will change as well; and we will all learn something in the process.

(abridged from "Passages")

Check (x) the statements you agree with and write what you think about such changes.

- ☐ Schools are not necessary.
- ☐ New technology will replace schools.
- ☐ The use of new technology is positive.
- ☐ Corporations should help schools.
- ☐ Learning should take place only in schools.
- ☐ Education is important for people of all ages.
- ☐ The fact that schools will change is positive.

BOOT CAMPS

AMERICA'S SOLUTION TO TEENAGE CRIME?

The article is written using American English and spelling

Frightened parents and teachers in the US are looking for new ways to stop their kids from getting into crime, and some of them think that 'boot camps' may be the answer.

Teenage Crime Facts

- During the last ten years over 30 people, including kids and teachers, have been killed by students on school campuses throughout the US. Over 50 students have been injured.
- At Columbine High, Colorado, in 1999, 13 children were shot dead and 23 were injured by two students, who were part of a violent gang.
- Many states in America give death sentences for murders, but not if they are under 18. Under-18s are usually sent to youth detention centers<sup>1</sup>.

1 Boot camps are modeled on military-training camps and jails. Sheriff Joe Arpaio of Maricopa County believes that if all kids experience jail<sup>2</sup> once, they won't ever want to go back. He hopes to teach them that crime doesn't pay.

2 You don't have to be a young offender to go to Maricopa County boot camp. If parents and teachers are worried about their children's delinquent<sup>3</sup> behavior, they can send them here.

3 When the kids arrive they have to change their clothes. Jeans and T-shirts are out – they aren't permitted. Instead, they have to wear their identity cards and jail uniforms. The guards who run the jail tell them that they must obey the rules or face the consequences<sup>4</sup>. They start by making kids keep in line and look straight ahead, no talking. The tents where they sleep are uncomfortable, with no TVs. Guards inspect the tents regularly. The kids must make their beds carefully, there is no privacy in the tents. One girl who stayed at a boot camp said she could hear other kids crying in their beds during the night. Another girl said she felt alone and scared with nobody to care about her.

4 There are three meals a day, starting with breakfast at 5.50 a.m. As the camp only spends 35 cents on a meal, it isn't very appetizing. "Our dog gets fed better," one girl said. The kids don't have any choice – so most of them eat it.

5 The day's activities start after breakfast. First, ex-offenders<sup>5</sup> lecture the kids about how they started getting into crime and describe their experiences in jail. Then work starts, and it is a large part of the program. Cleaning the kitchens and doing the dishes are typical duties. The guards and their dogs watch the kids carefully in order to make sure each person is doing the same amount. The guards are tough, so laughing or joking with friends isn't permitted. After dinner there are more lectures and more work.

Notes:

1. youth detention center – исправительная «колония»
2. jail = prison – тюрьма
3. delinquent [di'liŋkwənt] – правонарушение, преступление
4. face the consequences – нести ответственность за последствия
5. ex-offender – бывший правонарушитель

Unit 9

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE CAREER. JOB

Discuss the following questions:

Have you already made up your mind what you want to be?

Do you know what skills you need for the job?

18

Ex. 1. Read the text and answer the questions below.

CHOOSING AN OCCUPATION

One of the most difficult problems a young person faces is deciding what to do about a career. There are individuals, of course, who from the time they are six years old "know" that they want to be doctors or pilots or fire fighters, but the majority of us can't make a decision about an occupation or career when they leave school. Choosing an occupation is a difficult problem. There are a lot of things you have to think about as you try to decide what you would like to do. You may find that you will have to take special courses to qualify<sup>1</sup> for a particular kind of work, or may find out that you will need to get some work experience<sup>2</sup>.

Fortunately, there are a lot of people you can turn to for advice and help in making your decision. At most schools, there are teachers who can counsel<sup>3</sup> you and give detailed information about job qualifications<sup>4</sup>. And you can talk over your ideas with family members and friends who are always ready to listen and to offer suggestions.

Notes:

1. qualify for ['kwɒlɪfaɪ] – (зд.) получать специальность, квалификацию
2. experience [ɪks'piəriəns] – опыт
3. counsel [kaʊnsəl] – советовать
4. job qualifications – сумма качеств, необходимых для приема на работу

1. What is the most difficult problem for a young person when he leaves school? 2. What things do you have to think about when choosing an occupation? 3. What should one do to qualify for a particular job? 4. Whom can you turn for advice when making your decision? 5. Do you know what you want to be? 6. Have you got any career plans?

Ex. 2. Read the text and fill in the chart below. Find out what career plans the young people have. What character traits and skills do they have to realize their career plans?

THE GATE-WAY TO GROWN-UP LIFE

(abridged from "The Copper Beech" by Maeve Binchy)

By the school house stands a copper beech. The names and dreams of the pupils who have grown up under its branches are written on its bark<sup>1</sup>. This tree is the gate-way to their grown-up life. Seven children once carved<sup>2</sup> their names on the trunk of that tree...

no one had asked Maura what she wanted to do when she left school. She wouldn't be going to the convent<sup>3</sup> in the town like Leo Murphy and Nessa Rayan.

There were no plans for her to go into technical school. She wasn't smart enough to be taken on as a trainee in one of the shops, or the hairdressing salon. Maura was going to work as a maid. She would like a job in a lovely big house.

Eileen was going to University if she got a lot of honors in her Leaving Certificate. She would be an architect. The nuns<sup>4</sup> said she had all the brains<sup>5</sup> in the world.

And Sheila wanted to do nursing so she was already sending out applications to the better training hospitals in Dublin<sup>6</sup>.

It was understood that her brother Declan would do medicine. He would be coming back to help his father in practice and take over. But he decided against it. Declan would like to join an auctioneering firm<sup>7</sup>. It was the kind of thing that appealed to Declan – looking at places, showing them to customers<sup>8</sup>. He was good at talking to people, telling them good points of a place.

Niall Hayes was going to Dublin setting up his plans to study law. Niall seemed to be enjoying university and studying hard. Foxy Dunne was in England on the building site.

There was no question of University for Nessa Rayan, no plan for a career, nothing, except the usual refuge<sup>9</sup> of those who could not think what to do – the secretarial course in the town. Nessa began her course in shorthand and typing. When she finished her course at the college she would work full-time for her mother and father at the hotel. From time to time Nessa served behind the bar to know what the customers wanted.

Since his childhood Eddie was good at pressing flowers<sup>10</sup>. Nessa had always thought they were so nice that he could do it for a living. He was dreaming of setting up a craft center with small shops to sell everyone's work there.

Notes:

1. bark/trunk – ствол

2. carve – вырезать

3. convent – монастырь (женский); go to convent – (зд.) идти в школу при монастыре

4. nun – монахиня

5. had all the brains – was very clever

6. Dublin – Дублин

7. auctioneering firm – фирма, продающая недвижимость с аукциона

8. customer – посетитель, покупатель

9. refuge – прибежище, убежище

10. press flowers – засушивать цветы

JOB QUALIFICATIONS<sup>1</sup>

In our society work is almost a must for a person. So – unless you are very rich – you have to work if you want to be accepted by your friends, acquaintances and neighbours. That is the reason why some unemployed persons make believe that they still have a job, they cannot admit even to their family that they are out of work.

An unemployed person often feels unwanted and useless.

If I could choose my job freely this job would have to meet some of the following qualifications:

- 1) The most important condition would be that I liked my work, that it gave satisfaction; and not only for the moment but in the long run.
- 2) This job should pay well enough. I don't really want to become a millionaire but I would not reject a certain luxury.
- 3) In this job I would like to work with other people and not just things. That does not mean that a job in research or production was excluded from my list – but I would not want to be isolated from other people.

To put it in a nutshell<sup>2</sup>, a job that satisfies, that pays fairly well, and one that lets me work together with people.

Notes:

A Letter of Application<sup>1</sup>

Traineeship with Elm Street Nursery School

Dear Sir or Madam,

With reference to your advertisement in The Times I would like to apply for the vacant position<sup>2</sup> of nursery school trainee.

In June I will complete my A-level and the further course of studies I have chosen requires months practical training in this field. A position in your school would give me opportunity to meet this requirement<sup>3</sup>.

I feel that my experience working with children qualifies me well for this post. For two years I have been working as a volunteer at our day care centre, after school and during school holidays. Here I was in charge of<sup>4</sup> team sports. I also organized and run the centre's lending library for books and cassettes.

I consider myself to be hard-working and reliable. I enjoy new challenges<sup>5</sup> and working on my own<sup>6</sup> as well as with a team. I have always been able to get along well<sup>7</sup> with young children.

Of course I would not expect any pay for this trainee position.

I hope that you will be interested in my application. I would be glad to attend an interview at your convenience.

I look forward to hearing from you...

POSITIONS VACANT

II. Here are three young school-leavers speaking about themselves.

A. Joan Berwick

I'm still at school but I finish next month. So I'm looking for a job. I've got my own PC and I can use a word processor. I can use a switchboard because my sister is a receptionist and she showed me what to do, but I haven't got any experience. I'm going to take a secretarial course, I want an office job but I don't want to work for a large firm.

B. Alan McGee

I left school two months ago. I haven't got any work experience. I haven't done any examinations and I haven't got any qualifications. I don't like sitting at a desk and doing paper work. I spent my childhood at my grandfather's farm and I like to be in the open air. I used to help my grandfather with his work. So I know something of gardening and I can operate simple farm machinery.

C. Hamish Griffiths

I'm going to leave school in two months' time. I'd like to find some job right off. My teacher says I'm a good student and accurate in my work. I can type but I don't know anything about word processors, I like my schoolmates and often help them with their work. I like to be with people and learn from them.

III. Now decide which job each of them can apply for and get. Explain why.

There are jobs indoors and jobs in the open air. There are jobs where you have to stand up and jobs where you have to sit down.

You can be a teacher, a doctor, a lawyer; or you can be a builder, a turner, a driver, a shorthand typist. Which job will you choose?

LIVING BY THE SWORD

When Cristina Sanchez told her parents that she wanted to become a bullfighter instead of a hairdresser, they weren't too pleased. But when she was eighteen her parents realised that she was serious and sent her to a bullfighting school in Madrid, where she trained with professionals. Since last July, Sanchez has been the most successful novice in Spain and is very popular with the crowds. After brilliant performances in Latin America and Spain earlier this year, Sanchez has decided that she is ready to take the test to become a matador de foros. Out of the ring, Sanchez does not look like a matador. She is casually elegant, very feminine and wears her long blond hair loose. She seems to move much more like a dancer than an athlete, but in the ring she is all power.

When she was fourteen, Sanchez's father warned her that the world of bullfighting was hard enough for a man and even harder for a woman. It seems he is right. "It really is a tough world for a woman," says Sanchez. "You start with the door shut in your face. A man has to prove himself only once, whereas I have had to do it ten times just to get my foot in the door."

In perhaps the world's most masculine profession, it would seem strange if Sanchez had not met problems. But even though Spanish women won the legal right to fight bulls on equal terms with men in 1974, there are still matadors like Jesulin de Ubrique who refuses to fight in the same ring as her. Sanchez lives with her family in Parla, south of Madrid. Her family is everything to her and is the main support in her life. "My sisters don't like bullfighting, they don't even watch it on TV, and my mother would be the happiest person in the world if I gave it up. But we get on well. Mum's like my best friend." When Sanchez is not fighting she has a tough fitness routine – running, working out in the gym and practising with her father in the afternoon. By nine she is home for supper, and by eleven she is in bed. She doesn't drink, smoke or socialise. "You have to give up a lot," says Sanchez. "It's difficult to meet people, but it doesn't worry me – love does not arrive because you look for it."

Sanchez spends most of the year travelling: in summer to Spanish and French bullfights and in winter to Latin America. Her mother dislikes watching Sanchez fight, but goes to the ring when she can. If not, she waits at home next to the telephone. Her husband has had to ring three times to say that their daughter had been injured, twice lightly in the leg and once seriously in the stomach. After she has been wounded, the only thing Sanchez thinks about is how quickly she can get back to the ring. "It damages your confidence," she says, "but it also makes you mature. It's just unprofessional to be injured. You cannot let it happen." Sanchez is managed by Simon Casas, who says, "At the moment there is no limit to where she can go. She has a champion's mentality, as well as courage and technique."

1. When Sanchez told her parents that she wanted to be a bullfighter they
  - A felt a little pleased.
  - B thought she was too young.
  - C thought she had a good sense of humour.
  - D were initially opposed to the idea.

  - B bullfighting is a difficult career for women.
  - C it is almost impossible to succeed as a female bullfighter.
  - D women have to demonstrate their skills as much as male bullfighters do.
3. Sanchez's mother
  - A is everything to the family.
  - B prefers to watch her daughter on TV.
  - C supports her more than the rest of her family.
  - D would prefer Cristina to leave the ring.
4. What does "it" in line 37 refer to?
  - A the fitness routine;
  - B not socialising;
  - C giving up;
  - D smoking.
5. Sanchez doesn't socialise often because
  - A she doesn't like cigarettes and alcohol.
  - B her work takes up most of her time.
  - C she is worried about meeting people.
  - D it's too difficult to look for friends.
6. What does Sanchez think about after being injured?

HEALTHY HOBBIES

By the way a person uses his leisure<sup>1</sup> his character can be told. In their leisure time people do what they really want to do, and their real selves are reflected in their actions.

Some people are passive, they spend their free time at a place where no effort is required by them, a cinema, theatre, a dancing hall.

A different type of person is full of ideas, he plans some interesting schemes for his leisure time. This is a creative type of character. For him his leisure time is full of activity.

Hobby is a wonderful occupation for leisure time. But it is not only an occupation. Hobbies teach us all sorts of things and they do it in a pleasurable way.

For example, stamp collecting is more than just having lots of stamps. It's our entry into the whole world of culture and history.

Such hobbies as carpentry<sup>2</sup> or model engineering teach us practical skills and the basics of science.

There are clubs for construction enthusiasts, so you won't be alone and learn quite useful things.

Gardening, music are the hobbies which teach us to enjoy the beautiful. Another hobby is cultivation of pen-friends. You'll get a lot of interesting letters sent to you by all sorts of interesting people from remote and exotic places. You'll learn a lot of things about the culture and traditions of different countries and at least some words from a foreign language.

Some hobbies keep us fit: boating, hiking, camping. With sport the competitive<sup>3</sup> spirit is given its outlet<sup>4</sup>. You'll gain discipline, respect for the judge, the referee, the rule-book.

The life of a person can really be full and rich thanks to his hobbies. It's also a wonderful chance to make friends!

| 1. .... | 4. .... |
| 2. .... | 5. .... |
| 3. .... | 6. .... |

Ex. 10. Read the letter again. Underline the words used to say what the film was like.

Hi Frank,

Do you remember that film you recommended to me last year? Well, I went to see it, and I really enjoyed it. Now there has been a sequel<sup>1</sup>. I don't usually expect too much of the third part of a successful film, but "E.T."<sup>2</sup>, part three was well worth watching. It was full of imaginative ideas, like this old granny as a space invader, and it was very amusing, too.

Well, of course the plot is based on the first two parts, but I think the director tried very hard to give it a character of its own. You know that I'm especially keen on special effects and stunts<sup>3</sup> and there was quite a lot of that in the film.

The two main characters in "E.T. 3" are the old granny and a gangster from Brooklyn. It is great to watch how the relationship between these two changes in the course of the film.

There is a lot of suspense<sup>4</sup> too. Most of the action takes place in this old warehouse in Brooklyn, where granny is kept prisoner. The turning point comes when she shows the gangsters that she is a little more clever than they are and escapes.

After that luck changes and granny makes friends with the gangsters – mainly through her marvellous Italian cooking. Well, you may say the plot is rather far-fetched and not very realistic, but I liked it.

Yours, Tom

FOR THE FANS OF AMERICAN CINEMA

Read the text and highlight the answers to these questions.

1. What are the most famous films directed by Spielberg?
2. When was Spielberg's well-known thriller "Jaws" produced?
3. Why are his films so popular?
4. What film brought Spielberg worldwide recognition?
5. How is his remarkable black-and-white epic film called?

ONE OF THE BEST FILM DIRECTORS

STEVEN SPIELBERG

What do the films "Jaws", "Schindler's List" and "Jurassic Park" have in common? If you are a fan of American cinema, you will probably know that they were all directed by Steven Spielberg. Over the last thirty years, Spielberg has directed or produced some of the most successful films of all times.

Steven Spielberg was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1947 and was interested in cinema from a very early age. In 1970, Spielberg's talent came to the attention of Universal Pictures and he was signed to a seven-year contract to direct films for television.

"Sugarland Express" was the first of Spielberg's films to be shown on the big screen. One year later, in 1975, the thriller "Jaws" gave him his first big success. Spielberg's films were popular with audiences and critics because of their special effects, imaginative scripts and dramatic music.

Soon, every film Spielberg worked on became a tremendous success, both financially and artistically. By the late 1970s, Spielberg was not only directing, but also producing and scriptwriting. He established his own independent production unit, Amblin Entertainment, in 1982, and began to produce a number of famous films, including "Gremlins", "Back to the Future" and "Arachnophobia", as well as animated features such as "An American Tail" and "Who Framed Roger Rabbit".

The film which brought Spielberg wide recognition was the science fiction fantasy "ET: the Extraterrestrial", which was released in 1982. At the time, "E.T." made more money than any film had ever made, but the record was broken eleven years later when Spielberg's "Jurassic Park", featuring amazing and terrifying computer-created dinosaurs, was released.

Spielberg has also made more serious films, such as "Schindler's List". This black-and-white epic film showed that Spielberg is a director of great power and sensitivity. Spielberg won a second Academy Award for best director for the film "Saving Private Ryan" in 1999.

In 1994, Spielberg formed a new studio, Dreamwork SKG, with two other powerful Hollywood executives, Jerry Katzenberg and David Geffen. It looks as though Spielberg's influence on popular American culture will continue to grow and grow.

THE DISCO – ARE YOUNG PEOPLE AWARE OF ITS DANGERS?

For many decades now, discos have been a popular meeting-place for young people. It seems that it is a harmless place where teenagers meet friends, dance, have fun and best of all, where no parents can control them. But is this place really as safe as many people think? If we consider what happens in discos and after the disco every year, we will see that discos are anything but safe. Unfortunately, young people do not only go to discos in order to have fun and to meet friends. More than ever before teenagers who go there consume alcohol and drugs and what is even worse, they normally drive home afterwards under the influence of these substances. By doing this, they not only endanger their own lives, but also the lives of other innocent people. It is a fact that young people have more accidents after the disco than they normally do. As a result of the incredibly loud music, alcohol and drug consumption, they are not able to drive as safely as they would under other circumstances. Considering all these facts, it seems that young people are not aware of the dangers that go along with going to the disco regularly.

SUGGESTIONS FOR WRITING

A. Read the story "My Hobby". Write about your hobby as Keat did.

MY HOBBY

My name is Keat Bright and I'm 15 years old. I've got a lot of hobbies but my favourite hobby is collecting records. On my twelfth birthday my uncle gave me a long-playing record. At first I was a little bit disappointed because I wasn't very much interested in listening to pop music. The title of this record was "The John Lennon Collection". I wanted to make my uncle happy. Therefore I played the record at once. And what a surprise, I liked most of these songs. This was the beginning of my hobby. At the moment I have 72 long-playing records and 55 singles. I know that it is an expensive hobby but I like it. I spend nearly all my pocket-money for my hobby. Some of my friends think that I'm crazy and they cannot understand my passion. Last spring I wanted to buy several records. But all my money was gone. So I decided to look for a holiday-job in the summer holidays. A few weeks later I read in the newspaper: "Newspaper carrier wanted". I applied for this job and I really got it. Now I distribute a local newspaper every Thursday and I get $30 for it. That means one long-playing record and two singles! I only collect pop music, of course. I don't like classical music or folk music. And I'm afraid this will never change.

B. Read Susie's letter and write a reply.

Dear Irina,

During my spare time after school, after I finish my homework, I go out with my friends. We have Saturdays and Sundays off school. During the day we can go shopping in malls<sup>1</sup>. Most of the movie theatres are inside the malls.

My friends and I go to the movies, cafes, get together and gossip<sup>2</sup>. At night we go to parties or to dance places. We also like to swim. Lots of us are in school sports. During the summer I go camping and play summer sports.

As for money, I don't have a job, but I do baby-sitting sometimes to earn some pocket money. Sometimes my parents give me some money (if I haven't caused them any problems). I use my money for the same things you do.

These are just a few things we do here in the USA in spare time. If you'd like to know more write me back. I'd be more than happy to hear from you and also learn more about Russia.

Yours, Susie.

Notes:

1. mall [mɔ:l] – a shopping area closed to cars
2. gossip – сплетничать

HOBBIES

Today people have more time for leisure activities than they did in the past, mainly due to<sup>1</sup> shorter working hours. People also have higher incomes<sup>2</sup> and more paid holidays<sup>3</sup>, so they are now able to follow a wider range of<sup>4</sup> interests and activities in their spare time. Hobbies differ like tastes. If you have chosen a hobby according to your character and taste you are lucky because your life becomes more interesting.

Hobbies are divided into four large classes: doing things, making things, collecting things and learning things.

The most popular of all hobby groups is doing things. It includes a wide variety of activities, everything from gardening to traveling and from chess to volleyball.

As a result, the leisure industry has become very commercialized and caters<sup>5</sup> to a wide range of tastes. Mass entertainment, including spectator sports<sup>6</sup>, television, music, computer games and the cinema, the travel industry and "do-it-yourself" industry are now very big businesses.

People also do much sport. They do it for many reasons. Most people are amateurs<sup>7</sup> and do sport just for fun, for the exercise and to keep fit. There is some difference between sport in Britain and in other countries. For example, skiing is not very popular in Britain as there are not many mountains. They don't play much basketball and volleyball either, but many people play rugby. The British play many sports that are unknown in most other countries, for example: cricket, squash and netball.

Cricket is a typically British sport which foreigners have difficulty in understanding. There are two teams of eleven players. Matches last from one to five days. Many people think it is a slow and boring game, but it can be very exciting and rather dangerous. The ball often travels at a speed of 160kph!

Squash<sup>8</sup> is another British invention. It is a form of tennis. There are two players and they use rackets similar to tennis rackets and a small, black rubber ball. They play indoors. It is a very fast and tiring sport!

Netball is similar to basketball. There are seven players (usually girls or women) in each team and the object of the game is the same as in basketball: to throw the ball through a net at the top of a three-metre post.

Among young people extreme sports become more widespread. Parachuting<sup>9</sup> and mountaineering<sup>10</sup> have been popular with people looking for thrills<sup>11</sup> and adventure. It is a chance to express their individuality, it is also an alternative to traditional sports.

Extreem or action sports include inline skating, skateboarding, hanggliding<sup>12</sup>, surfing and many others. Unlike many other types of sport, there are often no official rules. But the main thing is not to take unnecessary risks!

Ex. 28. Read the text and underline the Gerund. Explain its use in these sentences. Do you go skateboarding?

FUN ON 4 WHEELS ONLY?

Skateboarding is popular with young people all over the world. Skateboarding is not like skiing as it can be done in most places and at most times of the year. But if you do not like skateboarding, what about windsurfing or snowboarding? You need the right equipment, of course, and the right conditions – water and wind or snow – but there is less risk of hurting yourself and less danger of injuring other people, too.

Many young people have the chance of learning to windsurf when they go on their summer holidays. But you should not go windsurfing if you are not fond of swimming! Most beginners spend more time climbing out of the water than standing on their boards, but after mastering the basic techniques you will usually become quite good at staying on your board and may enjoy windsurfing on the sea almost as much as skateboarding in the city.

KEEP FIT – DON'T SMOKE!

Smoking is a dangerous habit, and cancer can be the result. Only a minority of young people smoke these days – for most teenagers it's not a popular or acceptable habit.

But why do some young people start smoking? It often happens in families where children see their parents smoking, or in cases where a boyfriend or girlfriend smokes. Cigarette firms prefer to use adverts only with young, healthy people in them, although the firms in fact sell a very unhealthy product. And unfortunately a lot of young people are persuaded by the "cool" image in the adverts – probably a friend of yours is among them.

SO REMEMBER: IF YOU WANT TO KEEP FIT AND HEALTHY – DON'T SMOKE!

A

1. Smoking is a habit
2. It's only a minority of young people
3. For most teenagers smoking isn't something

6. The adverts ... show only healthy young people.
7. The product ... is very unhealthy.
8. A lot of us have got friends
9. Anybody ... shouldn't smoke!

B

- a. whose parents smoke
- b. cigarette firms prefer to use
- c. who smoke these days.
- d. cigarette firms sell
- e. cigarette firms have persuaded to smoke with their "cool" advertising image.
- f. which can cause cancer.
- g. that is popular or acceptable.
- h. whose boyfriend smokes
- i. who wants to keep fit

SUGGESTIONS FOR WRITING

Read the passage from an article about the measures taken in the USA against smoking. What is the situation with smoking in our country? Write a review (150–200 words) for your school magazine.

THANKS FOR NOT SMOKING

We've all heard the question "Smoking or non-smoking?" when making plane reservations. And when we travel by train, we have to choose whether we want to sit in a smoking or non-smoking car. In many countries these choices may not be available much longer. In the United States smoking is now prohibited in most public buildings and on airlines. And the smoking car on trains is already becoming a thing of the past.

Restaurants in the USA are designating separate sections for smokers, hotels are assigning special rooms, and many companies now provide separate areas for employees who smoke. And, of course, we are all bombarded daily with anti-smoking messages in the newspapers, on the radio, and on television.

B

Being overweight causes a lot of problems. The extract below tells you about one of them. Comment upon the problem. Do overweight people in Russia face the same problems?

Being fat, in fact, can cause real problems for an American. He or she will find it harder to get a good job, or even to make friends. If you want to do well, you must be thin. It doesn't seem fair, does it? Advertisers and fast-food sellers scream at people to eat, eat, eat. But inside, there is another voice saying "stop, stop, stop."

READING

FOOD SAFETY

There are two sides of the food issue. In poor countries it's a question of life and death. In rich countries it's a question of health and diet.

- Food has become a source of anxiety to many people. Behind it lies a revolution in the way our food is now produced. The problem is that a vast range of chemicals used on the modern farm have crept into our food. Our diet – the food we eat – is not always healthy.
- 30% of Americans and 25% of Europeans are fat because they eat too much junk food: hamburgers, popcorn, pizza, chocolate. Why is junk food bad for us? The answer is simple. It contains too much sugar and fat. This is the reason why so many people die of heart diseases.
- Finally, there are "additives" – a group of chemicals which food factories use. They make food look better, taste better, last longer. The best recommendation is to stop eating processed foods. Instead there is a diet of fruit, vegetables, brown bread, fish and other "health" foods.
- But even health food isn't always healthy. People don't just pollute the atmosphere. They pollute themselves too. Modern farmers and food factories use over three thousand chemicals. Some are "fertilizers" – these help crop to grow. Others are "pesticides" which kill insects. The third group are "hormones" – these make animals, like pigs, grow more quickly.
- Concern about health risks caused great demand for organic food, grown without chemicals. Chemicals are replaced by crop rotation. Organic agriculture is also kinder to the environment, the soil and farm workers.
- You may turn your worry about food to action. As a shopper you have a great deal of influence. How you choose to spend your money shape the supply chain policy. Citizens can choose and campaign for food that is safe to eat, healthy for themselves and the environment.

Notes:

1. pizza ['pi:tə]
2. chocolate ['tʃɒklət]
3. pesticide ['pestisaid]
4. hormone ['hɔ:moun]
5. creep (crept) – красться

Ex. 15. True or false? Give reasons for your answers based on the text (✓).

5. Food additives can add colour, flavour, artificial sweetness.

AMERICAN FOOD

Foreign visitors to the States are often surprised to see so many Americans who are fat. It would be a prejudice<sup>1</sup> to say that these fat people always lack self-control — they are fat because American food supplies too many calories. Especially meat is fatty, and moreover, it is laden with hormones and antibiotics.

The consequence<sup>2</sup> is that Americans are irresistibly attracted by new diets in order to lose weight. Half the women in America believe themselves to be overweight. In this country of great abundance it is a must to be thin. On the bestseller book lists of the USA you find cookbooks and diet books. Fortunately, regional as well as Chinese and Mexican restaurants serve low-calorie meals and stand in contrast to food establishments such as Pizza Hut, Burger King and other similar places.

Ex. 8. Read an interview with J.K. Rowling by Lindsey Fraser and answer the multiple-choice question below.

J.K. ROWLING

by Lindsey Fraser

Muggles, Dementors, Quidditch, Knuts, the Whomping Willow – if these words sound alien (иностранный) to you, then you have to be introduced to the world of Harry Potter and his friends. And his enemies.

J.K. Rowling is the author of the phenomenally popular series of books about the child wizard Harry Potter. The success in 1997 of her first-ever published book, "Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone", catapulted her to world fame, five books are made into a film by Warner Brothers.

When did the idea for Harry Potter first enter your head?

My boyfriend was moving to Manchester and wanted me to move too. It was during the train journey back from Manchester to London, after a weekend looking for a flat, that Harry Potter made his appearance. I have never felt such a huge rush of excitement. I knew immediately that this was going to be such fun to write. I didn't know then that it was going to be a book for children – I just knew that I had this boy, Harry. During that journey I also discovered Ron, Nearly Headless Nick, Hagrid and Peeves. But I didn't have a pen that worked! So rather than trying to write it, I had to think it. And I think that was a very good thing. I was besieged by a mass of detail.

Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry was the first thing I concentrated on. I was thinking of a place of immense danger, with children who had skills with which they could overwhelm their teachers. Pretty soon I settled on Scotland in my mind. People keep saying they know what I based Hogwarts on – but they're all wrong. I have never seen a castle anywhere that looks the way I imagined Hogwarts.

So I got back to the flat that night and began to write it all down in a tiny cheap notebook. I wrote lists of all the subjects to be studied – I knew there had to be seven. The characters came first, and then I had to find names to fit them. I was looking through the Dictionary of Phrase and Fable – a great source for names and they came. Exactly what I wanted.

Can you describe the process of creating the stories?

It was a question of discovering why Harry was where he was, why his parents were dead. I was inventing it, but it felt like research. By the end of that train journey I knew it was going to be seven book series. I know that's extraordinarily arrogant for somebody who had never been published, but that's how it came to me. It took me five years to plan the series out, to plot through each of the seven novels. I know what and who's coming when, and it can feel like greeting old friends.

I almost always have complete histories for my characters. If I put all that detail in, each book would be the size of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, but I do have to be careful that I don't just assume that the reader knows as much as I do. Sirius Black is a good example. I have a whole childhood worked out for him. The readers don't need to know that but I do. I need to know much more than them because I'm the one moving the characters across the page.

I invented the game Quidditch after a huge row with the boyfriend I lived with in Manchester. I stormed out of the house, went to the pub – and invented Quidditch.

Mary Shelley (1797–1851) wrote her first and at the same time most successful novel at the age of 20. This novel describes the work of the student Frankenstein, who at the University of Ingolstadt, put together various parts of corpses<sup>1</sup> to create a new person. He gave life to the corpse by means of electricity. Frankenstein wanted to prove that he was able to create new life just as God had done when making Adam. ## READING

Ex. 11. Read the text and answer the multiple-choice questions below.

THE MAN OF THE THEATRE

The First Folio, the first collected edition of Shakespeare's plays, was published in 1623 and lists him as an important actor in his own plays. It is thought he preferred supporting roles rather than leading ones, such as the ghost of the king in Hamlet.

In 1594, Shakespeare joined others to form a new theatre company, "The Lord Chamberlain's Men". In 1599 the company built the Globe Theatre, the theatre most widely associated with his plays. Shakespeare was the company's regular dramatist for over twenty years and produced an average<sup>1</sup> of two plays a year. The company had a wide repertoire<sup>2</sup> but there was often not very much time to rehearse<sup>3</sup> a new play. Actors were only given the script for their own parts, which meant that they would only see who else was on the stage during the rehearsal! As women were forbidden to act in public, female roles were performed by boys.

In Shakespeare's time theatres were places of popular entertainment, which meant that audiences were made up of people from very different social classes. Audiences loved macabre<sup>4</sup> scenes and spectacular effects, which is the reason why Shakespeare's plays not only deal with elevated<sup>5</sup> themes but also contain more light-hearted and humorous elements such as farce, singing, dancing and fights.

Your musical talent may be discovered early. At six, for example, you may play the recorder, at twelve the piano; you may sing in the school choir<sup>1</sup> and later become the singer or the keyboard<sup>2</sup> player in a band. The other musicians in the band may play the (solo/lead, rhythm or bass) guitar, the saxophone, the drums or other instruments. Your musical style may be influenced by rock'n'roll, hard rock, jazz, disco, country, folk music etc.

Expensive equipment<sup>3</sup> (amplifiers<sup>4</sup>, loudspeakers<sup>5</sup>, microphones etc.) is required to produce a good sound<sup>6</sup>. You practise a lot, record your songs and send tapes to a record company in the hope of making a contract. You will need a producer, a sound engineer, someone to arrange the song etc. unless you compose the songs, write the lyrics, arrange the music and produce the disc yourself.

If your debut is a success, you may climb the charts<sup>7</sup>. You may have concerts around the country. Once you have made a name for yourself as a musician, you may tour Europe or the world.

INTERVIEW WITH MARSHALL MATHERS ALIAS EMINEM

1. I was born in Kansas City when my mother was seventeen. My father left when I was 5–6 months old. We moved to Detroit. My mother was unemployed. We were on welfare<sup>2</sup>. Then I dropped out of school in the 9th grade and had several badly paid jobs. I grew up mostly in Afro-American neighbourhood<sup>3</sup>. We were only three white households<sup>4</sup> on the block. Kids didn't like me because I was white. My friends were mostly black. When I was a teenager, I started to rap. People said: "You're not bad for a white boy" and I took it was a compliment.

The majority of my shows were for all-black crowds. I had to work hard before people stopped noticing my colour. There was a moment when I thought: "Damn, if I'd just been born black, I wouldn't have to go through all this trouble." But now I know how a black person feels when he tries to get a job in the white society.

EMINEM

TELLING IT LIKE IT IS

2. President George W. Bush described him as the most dangerous threat to American children since polio<sup>5</sup>.

Elton John thinks he is a musical genius. But there is a message in his music that is missed by his critics and loved by his fans. What Eminem is doing is not the cleaned-up pop that shows a perfect America, it shows real life now, and that is what the kids actually want to see. I think our kids have much more of an idea of what is going on than a lot of people think.

What Eminem raps about is often brutal, and even if his audience does not identify with<sup>6</sup> what has happened in his life, they can identify with the reality in his songs. It is something that they do not really get from listening to Britney Spears or Christina Aguilera.

He uses a lot of bad language, he talks about violence and about drug culture, but he is not saying that is the way it should be. When you listen to his words and his music, it is very intelligent, there is an irony behind it. What he is doing is simply communicating in a way that he has been brought up to communicate. He is using street language, and that is the way that kids talk these days, whatever your views on the matter are. People often overlook the context of Eminem's background.

LISTENING

Stacey and Catherine are friends who attend Selly Park Technical College in Birmingham. They work together as writers for "Blots of Ink", the school magazine. They have just seen "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolour Dreamcoat" produced by their school's drama group. Now they are talking about their impressions.

“Joseph and the Amazing Technicolour Dreamcoat” was a great success! The musical which had been expected to be fantastic failed. It may have happened because two members of the cast were ill and the director had to change the whole script. Though our correspondent Catherine was sitting rather far from the stage she noticed that the actors couldn't perform at all. It's a pity because the pupils had to pay 100 roubles for admission. When the curtain came down the audience went wild and the applause lasted for ages.

SUGGESTIONS FOR WRITING

Here you'll read a passage from an interview with Joan Rowling – the author of the popular series of books about Harry Potter. She tells the reader what kinds of music she likes. Will you answer the same question? Write an essay (150–200 words) about your favorite music/band/orchestra/folk group.

WHAT KIND OF MUSIC DO YOU LIKE?

I like all sorts of music. And I still listen to music I liked when I was 17. Neither of my parents was interested in classical music – they loved The Beatles and other 60s stuff, and I like those too. I played the acoustic guitar and would fantasise about playing an electric guitar solo. I still like The Beatles. My favourite group in all the world is The Smiths. And when I was going through a punky (зд. унылый) phase, it was The Clash.

TOP OF THE POPS – THE BEATLES

*"If I fell in love with you
Would you promise to be true
And help me understand
'Cause I've been in love before
And I found that love was more Than just holding hands ..."*

This is the first stanza of one of the early Beatles' songs. It is typical for their beginning as a pop group. It is love, love, love. But it does not in any way explain their success.

For one thing is clear, the Beatles started a revolution of popular music, and, indeed, they are the greatest songwriters of our age.

The frustrated generation of the 1950s discovered pop-music, with pop-music young people rocked into the sixties, seventies and eighties of the 20th century and most probably they will do so far into the coming ones.

The Beatles had their first public performance in Liverpool in 1959. At the time the band consisted of John Lennon, Paul McCartney, Stuart Sutcliffe, George Harrison and the drummer Peter Best. All five of them came from Liverpool. The music they played was rather loud, too loud and simple, all based on the "boy-meets-girl-topic".

This was no wonder because these songs reflected their Liverpool way of life, which was, too, simple, loud and poor.

But the sound of the Beatles, a mixture of classical rock and commercial rhythm and blues won friends.

As it was hard to get jobs as musicians in Liverpool they started their career in Hamburg. There they played in different clubs. They returned in Liverpool in 1962. Then the story of the Beatles' success began. By the spring of 1963 they were the most successful band in the British charts and became a national obsession. In 1964 they released their first film "A Hard Day's Night" which was immediately a success, even in the U.S.A.

Slowly but gradually Lennon and McCartney songs became more complicated and philosophical. These new imaginative lyrics and the memorable melodies were soon at the centre of their Liverpool sound. They expressed the feelings of whole generation in the 1960s and 1970s. Man is lost in a world which he can no longer understand. The sense of life has replaced the old theme of love. Suddenly the Beatles' music is accompanied by lyrical words.

Serious critics started to take the Beatles not only as musicians but as real poets, too.

The Beatles broke up in 1971. John Lennon went on writing songs and performing in the U.S.A. together with his second wife Yoko Ono. Lennon, who wrote the unforgettable song "Give peace a chance", which became a sort of national anthem (hymn) for the peace-loving part of the world, was killed by a madman in the streets of New York in 1980.

Paul McCartney who founded a new group with his wife Linda, "The Wings", still is successful today. There is no doubt that some of his and John Lennon's melodies will be remembered and become standards of tomorrow's classical music. Undoubtedly one of these melodies and lyrics is:

*"Yesterday, all my troubles seemed so far away
Now it looks as though they're here to stay
Oh, I believe in yesterday ..."*

LISTENING (p. 16)

My mother and my father are very different people. Mum is always very calm; she doesn't get excited. When we were small she almost never shouted at us. When we did something wrong she talked to us about it very firmly, but in a calm tone of voice. If we shouted and cried she made us go and sit by ourselves in our room until we calmed down.

Dad, on the other hand, shouted and went for a long walk to try to cool off. During the next few days he was cross with us a lot of the time, which upset us.

LOVE STORY?

I was going home after my first term at university, and I was feeling very happy. At the time I was studying in Edinburgh and still living with my parents in London. I was very much looking forward to going home because my girlfriend Hilary would be meeting me at King Cross Station. It was December – almost Christmas time. The train was very crowded.

It was while I was looking for a seat that I saw her. My heart stopped. The girl of my dreams was sitting there reading a novel.

"Is this seat taken?" I heard myself ask. She looked up, smiled and said: "No. I was keeping this seat free for my boyfriend, but he hasn't arrived yet." I sat down opposite her. Just then the train began to move. I watched the platform, and I suddenly saw a young man with a heavy suitcase. He was running after the train. Was this her boyfriend? Only I could see him. She was facing the other way. But the train was travelling fast now, so he couldn't catch it.

Before five minutes had passed Sheila (that was her name) and I were talking as if we had known each other for years. By the time we were passing through York I knew that I had found myself a new girlfriend.

Sheila didn't actually live in London, but she was staying with an uncle and aunt over Christmas. We exchanged addresses and telephone numbers and promised each other that we would meet. I had forgotten Hilary.

We were ten minutes late at Kings Cross. I helped Sheila off the train with her luggage. She smiled and kissed me goodbye. I looked up from the kiss and saw that Hilary was walking quickly along the platform towards us.

She was not smiling.

I.

Peggy:

When I was a child we often went camping.

One year we drove to Wales.

It rained all the time and we got a bit fed up with being wet.

One night there was a terrific storm and the field began to flood.

We took the tent down and moved up the hill.

But it kept raining and the water rose higher and higher.

The next day we decided we'd had enough. And so we packed the car and went back home.

Bruce:

I was 13 or 14. The school offered a trip to Italy, and my parents said it was a good idea. But I'm afraid I didn't enjoy it.

It took 30 hours on the train, it was amazingly hot, and we had a coach-trip every day.

I didn't enjoy the food at all, the teachers thought we were too young to drink wine, and there was an awful man in the hotel who followed us around and complained about everything we did. And every five minutes they played a song on the radio which I hated.

Two weeks after 52 people were killed in London, an identical pattern: attacks on tube and bus in the east, the west, the south and the north. But the devices failed. On the run last night: four would-be suicide bombers.

Bombs that had been carried on to three tube trains and a bus at different points across the capital did not explode, because their detonators failed to blow up the rest of the devices.

The bombers were following a pattern almost identical to the attacks of 7/7, with three tube trains or stations and one bus – nearly simultaneously – one in the east of the capital, one to the south, another to the west and one near the north of the city centre.

The police have discovered the four bombs.

Three of these were of a similar size and one was smaller. They were all in rucksacks and bore similarities to those used by the four suicide bombers in the city on July 7.

The police say the bombs will be examined and it will help to find the bomb-makers, who trained them, who is the chemist.

Security officials are attempting to discover whether the bombers are part of the same group that murdered 52 people 14 days earlier, or whether they copy the attackers.

These things are done to scare people, to make them worried. But Londoners say: "Life must go on."

LISTENING (p. 121)

THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE SUCCESS STORY

English began its life as a small group of dialects somewhere in the mists of North Germany. In the 5th century its speakers moved to Britain. After 1066, when the Normans conquered England, the upper classes spoke French, and English became the language of the lower classes for the next two hundred years. English began to spread outside Europe in the 16th century, first to colonies in North America, in the 18th century to India, and in the 19th century to Australia and New Zealand.

English became important in the 19th century because it was the language of the British Empire. In the 20th century most of the colonies became independent but English was still used by many countries. In 2000 Nigeria had about 45 million people who spoke English as their first language, and India had almost 35 million people whose second language was English. In the former US colony of the Philippines, about 31 million speak English as their second language.

ACID RAIN

Another cause of pollution, both in the air and in the water, is "acid rain". This is caused by smoke from factories, power stations, and by the exhaust fumes from cars. The dangerous chemicals which they release into the air mix with drops of water in the atmosphere and they come down again as acid rain. As a result, fish is being killed in rivers and lakes, trees are dying, buildings are being damaged and very serious health problems are being caused.

The results of the pollution are not only felt in the places where they are caused. The wind carries pollutant gases for hundreds or even thousands of kilometers away.

Seven million hectares of European forests are dead or dying because of acid rains. The soil in parts of Scandinavia is now ten times more acid than fifty years ago. This liquid killer is also attacking many of Europe's most famous sculptures and buildings.

To stop acid rains we must make our factories and power stations cleaner.

THE WORLD'S LONGEST RUNNING SOAP OPERA

The British public particularly like soap operas. This is why a war has broken out between the four television stations as to who can make the best one. People are fond of them because they show real life situations. Their main aim is to entertain people, but sometimes political or social questions – like unemployment, the peace movement or minority problems – are raised. "Coronation Street" marks the birth of British soap opera: this programme about ordinary northern English people was first broadcast in 1960. Since then, it has found followers throughout the world. Some countries have made similar TV serials of their own.

It took years for Britain to accept another soap opera called "East Enders", which gives an impression of conditions in the poorer suburbs of London.

LISTENING (p. 179)

During high school, the future seemed very far away. Now that I'm older, I think about those days a lot. I remember things that I wish I hadn't done or had done differently.

I have only one regret about the time I spent in high school: I should have taken more advanced classes. For example, I had the opportunity to take an advanced English class, but decided to take the regular class. I didn't want to study too hard. I also wanted to spend more time with my friends. Now I'm in college and have to take a beginning English class. I wish I'd studied harder in high school!

I'm glad I was a member of the gymnastic team. We practiced every day after school and had competitions on Saturdays. We even won several competitions! My teammates became my good friends. Now I know that extracurricular activities are important because you can learn about responsibility, discipline and teamwork.

Good and bad experiences are a part of everyone's high school years.

LISTENING (p. 208)

1. John Andrews had to wear glasses ever since he was a small boy. So, shortly before the time when he was to leave school, his parents suggested that he might train to be an optician. John didn't have any strong feelings about what he wanted to do, so he agreed and started a course of training with the intention of becoming an optician. He found the work interesting, and did not have any trouble in qualifying at the end of the course. After graduating he applied for a number of jobs and managed to get one in the town where he lived.
2. All his life Edward had lived with his parents in a big city, but he had always loved the country, and he was particularly interested in science, so when he finished school he decided to go to an agricultural college and learn how to be a farmer.

3. To study to become a Nurse in England, one has to pass certain examinations. Then, after quite a long course of practical and theoretical study, one has to pass more examinations. Timothy Lloyed, whose parents were both doctors, had always wanted to work in medicine. Later at school, Timothy was particularly interested in science, especially biology. Since he was more interested in practical things, he wanted to become a nurse. He was gentle, he believed that people should help one another, and he was not afraid of blood, so he was a boy whose teachers all agreed would make an excellent nurse.
4. The favourite subject at school for Ted Hughes [hju:z] was geography, because he had always wanted to travel. He studied various parts of the world so that he could feel as if he knew them a little. Ted liked children and was always ready to have a joke with them. So after finishing school he decided to be a teacher. He finished teachers training college and became a teacher of geography in a primary school.

	wanted to become	why?
John Andrews	an optician	– had to wear glasses, his parents suggested
Edward	a farmer	– loved the country, was interested in science
Timothy Lloyed	a nurse	– his parents were doctors, he wanted to work in medicine, wanted to help people
Ted Hughes	a teacher of geography	– geography was his favourite subject, he liked children

LISTENING (p. 256)

An enormous fast-food industry gives hungry Americans the snacks they love so much: ice cream, popcorn, hot dogs. They are on sale everywhere. But if more and more Americans eat fast-food, more and more of them also worry about it. Fast-food makes you fat and Americans are the fattest people in the world. Nowadays many people in America are interested in eating health food. In fact it has become a national passion.

Americans have turned away from their traditional meat and potato dinner and started eating salads, fruits and vegetables. Vegetable oil replaced butter and animal fats, people drink low-fat milk too. They are also much more careful about sugar, which is responsible for weight problems. But perhaps the clearest sign of changing eating habits is found in restaurants which offer meals for weight-watchers and tell you exactly how many calories each meal has. There are now salad bars everywhere, even in fast-food restaurants. Doesn't that make you feel better?

The book will be entitled "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows". The title can be translated into Russian as "Гарри Поттер и роковой День всех святых". The book will appear in bookshops in the first part of 2007. However, Rowling didn't reveal the details of the plot but for one detail: two characters of the novel will perish in the last book. It's a sad surprise. The readers are sure, that one of the perished heros will be Harry Potter. But it's too early to get upset. Arthur Conan Doyle was also going to "kill" his main character Sherlok Holmes, but he always revived him as his readers and publishers were waiting for his new books. The Harry Potter novels are being screened. In 2007 we'll be able to see the fifth part of the series.

LISTENING (p. 291)

WHY DO SO MANY PEOPLE READ COMICS?

Even though Mickey Mouse, Superman and other comic heroes have already been on the market for so many years, millions of people – young and old – still buy comic books. Why do so many people prefer to read a comic than, for example, a novel? One of the many reasons might be the fact that comics are humorous and make the reader laugh. Another reason for the popularity of comics is their shortness. To read a comic does not take a lot of time and a lot of thinking, which makes it relaxing for the reader. In comparison to reading a long story or a novel, reading a comic is a lot less tiring. Another reason for the continuing popularity of several comic figures is the cult status that they already have. One example of this cult is Mickey Mouse. Today it is possible to get almost any kind of item with a picture of Mickey or his friends on it. Comic heroes, like Mickey, Minnie, Superman, Batman and many others are timeless, and they will always attract millions of people, no matter where or when.

LISTENING (p. 312)

a) Catherine: "I don't like classical plays like 'Hamlet' or operas in which people sing too much in Italian, but this musical was really fantastic. The drama group performed so well and I think we should write a very positive review."

b) Stacey: "You're right. I went to see the dress rehearsal last Wednesday and talked to the director afterwards. He was a bit nervous because two members of the cast were ill and he had to change the whole script."

c) Catherine: "Oh, did he really? I didn't notice. I had a very good seat in the first row and I thought all the actors were excellent. The others must have felt the same, because when the final curtain came down, the audience went wild and the applause lasted for ages."

d) Stacey: "Well, all the students at the college should really watch this. 'Joseph' is a lot better than sitting in front of the TV watching boring re-runs and silly commercials. You don't even have to pay for admission which is great, too."

- I. Catherine: 2, 3, 4
Stacey: 1, 5
